FLU HITS ICE - BOUND FERRY

SPREADS AMONG 300 PASSENGERS; SNOW ADDS TO SUFFERING

Cities Isolated As All Communication Forms Cut Off

COPENHAGEN, Feb. 18.—The ferryboat Tyr wireless Copenhagen today that it was icebound in the Great Belt Channel with influenza spreading among its approximately 300 passengers.

Neither physicians nor medical supplies were aboard but the food supply was plentiful.

The ferry has been icebound for two days and two nights between Fyen and Zeeland, it reported.

LONDON, Feb. 18. — Renewal of severe snowstorms in Poland and Sweden added today to the suffering caused by ten days of unbroken cold almost without precedent in European history.

Wireless was left as the sole means of communication between Warsaw and Lemberg, Tarnopol and Stanislavov, Poland, when telephone and telegraph lines went out and railways and roads were blocked by deep snow-drifts.

Trains were buried beneath snowdrifts fourteen and sixteen feet deep on the route between Malmø, Sweden, and Copenhagen, a morning Post Dispatch from Stockholm said today.

Two thousand railway passengers were stranded at Stuhleisen, near Hamburg, another morning Post Dispatch from Budapest said.

The Swedish snowstorm was in the southern part of the country and was the worst in decades. Snowdrifts in Poland reached a depth of from sixteen to twenty-one feet, a United Press dispatch from Warsaw said.

Fifty-one factories in the Lodz area were closed because of coal shortages.

The death toll throughout the continent and in England continued to mount today and has reached several hundred in the last week. Burning boilers and other accidents attributable to the cold resulted in thirty-five deaths in England since last Tuesday.

Excepting Poland and Sweden, Italy had the worst of the cold wave today. Ponte Lagoscuro reported a temperature of 18.6 degrees below zero Fahrenheit.

Ramshod wolves invaded the Campania region and devoured sheep, dogs, and cats in several towns.

Voice itself was feeling the effects of the weather. The population of Lation of Burano, mostly fishermen and their families, were burning their furniture for fuel while airplanes were utilized to drop food to them.

Rescue parties were attempting to light their way through more than sixteen feet of snow to isolated Monte Vettore, where the snow avalanche destroyed the grain mill.

The captain of an ice breaker which returned from efforts to free icebound shipping in the Baltic Sea, reported navigation there hopeless.

Temperatures moderated somewhat in Austria, Czechoslovakia, Hungary and Jugoslavia.

SAYS COOLIDGE TO BE WRITER

NEW YORK, Feb. 18.—The New York Times, in a special dispatch from Washington today, said it had learned authoritatively that President Coolidge would devote himself to writing on government subjects for some time after his retirement on March 4.

Mr. Coolidge plans to return to Northampton, Mass., to live, but also may maintain a Washington home, the Times said.

In the last three weeks the president has received offers from several newspaper syndicates to prepare articles which later may be gathered into a book.

The Times stated that the president was reluctant to engage in any business enterprise that had dealings with the government for fear that his name and prestige might be used in a way of which he would not approve.

MUST BE DELAYED

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18.—Legislation affecting Muscle Shoals cannot be passed during the few remaining days of the present session of Congress. Chairman Snell of the house rules committee told President Coolidge today in discussing the legislative outlook at the White House.

REBELS DYNAMITE TRAIN IN MEXICO; REVOLUTION IS NEAR

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 18.—Rebels dynamited a Colima-Guadalupe train between Manzano and Nicholas, Guadalupe dispatches said today, but caused little damage. They burned the Manzano station Saturday night.

Four priests have been arrested there and are being sent to the capital, other advices said.

NOGALES, Ariz., Feb. 18.—The Mexican state of Sonora was on the verge of another revolution today according to reports reaching here.

The reports last night described the arrival at Nogales, Sonora, of a trainload of soldiers under the leadership of General Manzo, one of the most widely known leaders in northern Mexico.

General Manzo, the reports said, planned to take possession of the Plaza at Nogales at daybreak and then distribute his forces at railroad key points throughout the state. Manzo's forces consisted of about 500 men.

Manzo took a commanding part in the suppression of the Yaqui uprisings several years ago. He had been mentioned as a possible candidate for the office of secretary of war in President Obregon's cabinet.

ESTABLISH IDENTITY OF PAIR WHO KIDNAPED HILLSBORO GIRL

HILLSBORO, O., Feb. 18.—A warrant charging Orval Oberholser, of Dayton, with the kidnapping in the abduction of Nancy Keys, 4, of Hillsboro, was issued today by Harold Bredmore, Highland County prosecutor.

Nathan Keys, grandfather and foster-father of the abducted girl, signed the warrant. The warrant charges Oberholser directly with kidnapping, but it was pointed out that, if apprehended, he will be charged with having instigated the plot that resulted in the girl's abduction.

and her aunt, Lillian Keyes, 17, to Cincinnati under the pretext of going for a ride. Lillian was pushed from the car in Cincinnati.

Mrs. Bone was formerly employed in Orval Oberholser's collection agency in Dayton, police said. It was there, too, that Nancy's mother Mrs. Ellen Hammond, who died under mysterious circumstances in Dayton two years ago, was employed.

With the identity of the Bownes established, police turned their attention to Palm Beach, Fla., where Orval Oberholser and his wife are believed staying.

Authorities believe the child was kidnapped at the direction of Orval who kept the child for a time after her mother died. He lost her when the courts awarded her to the Keys.

Officers said they had discovered that Daryl Oberholser and Mrs. Bone, registered at the Harper Hotel, Greenfield, O., for three days under the name of Mr. and Mrs. George R. Bowman, and that they left the hotel and went to Hillsboro after receiving a $400 money order from Palm Beach issued to "Ralph Clamons."

In Hillsboro the "Bownes" posing as church workers, gained the confidence of the Keys. They had a small boy with them, Gordon, aged 4, said to be the son of Mrs. Bone, who played with Nancy daily. He was used as a decoy.

County Prosecutor Harold A. Predmore said today a warrant would be issued for Orval Oberholser in connection with the kidnapping. Warrants already are out for the "Bownes," and police, meanwhile, planned reopening an investigation into Mrs. Hammond's death which was recorded as a suicide. At the same time they will establish the parentage of Nancy they said.

POLICE PUZZLED BY CHICAGO MASSACRE AS ALL CLEWS FAUL

Liquor And Gambling Houses Closed As Probe Continues

CHICAGO, Feb. 18.—Police apparently were no nearer solution today of the northside beer massacre which occurred here last Thursday than they were a few hours after four or five gunmen lined up seven men in a garage and shot them to death.

A dozen leads, a score of clues, a hundred suggestions, all have been followed out but none have brought definite information as to the identity of the killers.

Whether the men were rival gangsters, beer runners from out of the city, hired killers by an ambitious mob, former policemen or actual members of the Chicago police force is being debated.

The latest and seemingly most promising clue was given by Wallace Caldwell, president of the board of education, who told police he saw a car which he thought was a police car run through a red light near the scene of the killing.

He said the car carried two men wearing uniforms and three others in civilian clothes. Caldwell declared he could identify these men if he saw them again.

The theory that the men were members of the Detroit "purple gang" has been almost abandoned. Declarations that three members of that gang had been identified by women who operate two rooming houses near the garage were denied.

Certain things have been accomplished. The slaughter resulted in the most effective closing of liquor and gambling houses Chicago has seen in years. The city that a few weeks ago was almost "wide open" is nearer a closed basis, far as liquor is concerned, than it has been in a decade.

It is true liquor can be bought, but the buyer is paying for the close-up order and only customers who are known are supplied by bootleggers.

EXPECT BILLS WILL FLOOD ASSEMBLY AT SESSION ON MONDAY

Monday Night Will Be Final Day For New Measures

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 18. — A flood of new bills will be introduced tonight when the eighty-eighth general assembly reconvenes to commence the seventh week of the legislative session.

Under rules adopted by both the senate and house, tonight's session is the last for the introduction of new measures. After this date consent of three-fifths of the members of either the senate or house is required for the presentation of any new legislative proposal.

As a result the members are expected to toss into the legislative hopper a host of measures of all kinds and descriptions, cleaning out their desks and pockets of all the bills they have withheld up to this time.

On the last regular day for introduction of bills in the 1927 session, a total of 280 new measures were presented, 176 in the house and 104 in the senate.

In view of the fact that the number introduced so far this session is considerably ahead of that for two years ago, prior to the lowering of the bars against new bills, legislative leaders believe the crop will be lower than usual. It may run, however, as high as 200.

LINDY'S GIRL AS SEEN BY HOME TOWN FOLK WHO EXPECTED ENGAGEMENT

A new portrait of Miss Anne Spencer Morrow.

By LESLIE P. EICHEL
Staff Writer for Central Press and The Gazette

ENGLEWOOD, N. J., Feb. 18.—This is Anne Morrow's town, sixteen miles—an hour's journey—from New York.

Already she's a tradition. Everybody (except those who knew her best) says all were aware her engagement to Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh was about due to be announced.

But James M. Bullock was surprised. He's the colored caretaker at the Dwight Morrow estate. "Nobody ever told me," he asserts.

He saw Lindbergh there once, and James has been with the Morrow family thirty years.

As James Tells Us
"I saw Miss Anne grow up," he tells.

Well, what did she do... what about this growing up? James shrugs his shoulders as he stands out in the cold unimpeded back yard of the new Morrow place.

"Nothin' unusual." You see, she just "grewed up" before he knew it. She was a sickly child, he thinks. Three girls, one boy, she was next to the youngest, you know; he gets a bit mixed.

Anyway, she had a German nurse, "Fraulein."

But she grew up strong and healthy.

No, she didn't have any pets. She didn't go out with young men. She liked to read. Not much on sports. (Yet she was a hockey "regular" at one school and played basket-ball at Smith.)

All the saddle horses were given away when the family moved to Mexico, where Dad's ambassador, Miss Anne was born down in town. Yep, she's 22. (Lindbergh's 27.) Then, very soon, the family moved up into the hills. And, last November, this new house was ready.

There was a house warming New Year's eve. Lindy came.

The house is low, rambling, pointed white to make it look an

SUB-COMMITTEE PROBES PAYMENTS

PARIS, Feb. 18.—A sub-committee of two men was appointed by the reparations experts conference today to find a short cut through Dr. Jhalmar Schacht's long exposition of Germany's economic condition more definite amounts in the discussion of Germany's annual payments.

The sub-committee was instructed to report to tomorrow's meeting more detailed plans of procedure along these lines, and the conference then adjourned for the day.

"FASTING MARTYR" WINS FATHER INTO FOLD

NEW HAMPSHIRE, O., Feb. 18.—Fred Conrad, the "fasting martyr" of New Hampshire, is going to dine copiously Friday night if his father, George, a grocer, keeps his promise.

The elder Conrad has promised to join the New Hampshire Methodist Church, thus effecting a compromise with his son who began fasting thirty-six days ago "because his father was possessed of the devil."

YOUNG COUPLE DEAD AND FIVE SERIOUSLY HURT NEAR FREMONT

Nine Injured When Bus Hits Truck Near Huron

Automobile accidents claimed their apparently inevitable toll in Ohio over the week end.

Perhaps the most tragic crash occurred near Fremont where Carl Strohl, a high school student, and Miss Ardis Hager, 18, of Carrothers, a student nurse, were killed when two automobiles collided. Five others were injured in the same accident, three of them perhaps fatally.

They are Raymond Schwartz, 21, and Neal Nickoloy, 24, of Fremont; Leonard Hager, 20, Miss Hager's brother; Elsie Brilliant, 18, and Elmer McClellan, 18, of Attica.

The accident occurred when the roadster in which Strohl, Nicky and Schwartz were riding passed another machine and side-swiped the car in which the other victims were riding.

In Columbus, William J. Cummings, 75, was killed when he was struck by a machine. The driver was exonerated.

Three Columbus children were injured so seriously two of them may die. One of them was hit by a Hocking Valley switch engine and the other two by automobiles.

Nine persons were injured, six seriously, when a bus and truck collided near Huron. The seriously injured were taken to Sandusky hospitals. The were all members of the Al Barlow Rainbow Theatrical Review, as follows: Peter Brady, Boston; Jack Goodwin, Northampton, Mass.; William Hamlet, Providence, R. I.; Mrs. Hamlet; Dorothy Rawlinson, Providence and R. M. Gano, Providence.

The collision occurred when the bus, conveying the troupe from Bellefonte, Pa., to Findlay, crashed head-on into the truck. Authorities are investigating. The others injured also were passengers aboard the bus. Five passengers escaped uninjured.

CRITICIZE TUNNEY. FOR PRESS ATTACK

NEW YORK, Feb. 18.—Gene Tunney, retired heavyweight champion of the world, came in for considerable adverse criticism in London sporting and social circles today for his attack on a group of news photographers and reporters who approached him at a hotel in Cannes, France, on Saturday. He refused to talk to the reporters.

Dispatches said Tunney scattered the photographers, knocked their cameras around and lunged at one of the camera men, hitting him repeatedly.

The Daily Express said today in an editorial:

"Tunney made a fortune from his fame as a fighter. That fame was made for him with the assistance of the photographers and press agents. To knock out one of the men who helped to advance him from obscurity to the American social register makes one wonder if he is not suffering from a swollen head."

Tunney is passing ten days at Cannes prior to going to Rome and Florence.

The senate has not heard such castigation of some of its members since the prohibition law was enacted and some senators left the chamber during Reed's speech.

The Reed speech jeopardized the Jones bill to which there had not previously been strong opposition, but its proponents say they will pass it anyway and send it to the house before nightfall.

The abandonment of the limited debate rule was a great concession because of the legislative jam in which the senate finds itself with adjournment of congress scheduled two weeks from today.

FREIGHTER IS SAFE

NEW YORK, Feb. 18.—The freighter Paduska, which sent out an SOS Saturday reporting that her rudder was broken, is proceeding toward the Azores, a message to the Radio Marine Corporation last night said. The message did not say how the rudder had been repaired.

It was learned definitely Lindbergh will not be in Washington for the inaugural ceremonies. Those close to him say he will probably be on the west coast on March 4 on his inspection trip for the T. A. T. He expects to start the trip within a very few days. It will cover the entire transcontinental route including Columbus, Ohio.

BORAH WILL ANSWER REED'S CHARGES OF SENATE HYPOCRISY

Missourian Flays Solons Who Drink Wet, Vote Dry

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18.—Priority of public officials drinking liquor and voting for prohibition measures was to be treated from the dry side of the question in the senate today as the week end prohibition debate is resumed by the outstanding orators of congress.

Senator William E. Borah of Idaho, who used the dry side so effectively as leading campaigner for Herbert Hoover in the recent presidential campaign, prepared to answer Senator James A. Reed, Missouri, the Cicerone of the wet's.

The exchange of sentiments will proceed a vote on the pending Jones bill proposing maximum penalties of five years in jail and $10,000 fines for violators of the prohibition law.

The measure had been scheduled for passage quietly Saturday, until Reed delivered a characteristically satirical speech berating "the hypocrites of congress" who fail to adhere to their public position in their private life. Reed went so far as to threaten to make a list of those who he has known in his eighteen years in congress to be "wet drinkers and dry voters."

"It will not be many years before the moral sensibilities of the American people will awake," said Reed, "to the fact that the prohibition law is the worst crime in the history of the United States and that the reign of hypocrisy and cant, of false pretense and of chicanery and fraud will come to an ignominious end."

"The day will come when the man who votes for prohibition, but who himself violates the letter and spirit of the law, will be held in that kind of contempt which ought to be visited upon the knavish hypocrite who masks himself behind pretended virtue and who seeks to hold office by virtue of his false pretenses."

The senate has not heard such castigation of some of its members since the prohibition law was enacted and some senators left the chamber during Reed's speech.

The Reed speech jeopardized the Jones bill to which there had not previously been strong opposition, but its proponents say they will pass it anyway and send it to the house before nightfall.

The abandonment of the limited debate rule was a great concession because of the legislative jam in which the senate finds itself with adjournment of congress scheduled two weeks from today.

SHOT TRYING TO ESCAPE ARREST

IRONTON, O., Feb. 18.—Floyd Miller, 27, shot when he tried to escape from two deputies, was near death today.

The shooting occurred when the deputies went to Miller's home to arrest him on an indictment charging assault.

After submitting to arrest Miller suddenly jerked away and ran. Both deputies fired simultaneously but only one bullet found its mark.

Physicians say Miller has little chance of recovery.

Miller, according to officials, is under parole from Akron, O., for highway robbery.

Three members of Miller's family have already died "with their boots on." His father was killed by a Scioto County constable several years ago. A brother, Roy Miller, died in an alleged hijacking feud near Ashland, Ky., and another brother, Owey Miller, was killed in a similar feud near Steubenville, O.

WILL PROBE DEATH

LOGAN, O., Feb. 18.—Sheriff W. R. Lloyd and deputies and Constable J. T. Miller left here today for Laurelville, Hocking County, to investigate the death of William Stewart whose body was found at Sam's Creek earlier today. Lloyd said he was advised Stewart apparently had been murdered. Bloodhounds were taken along.

FATHER NEAR DEATH FROM SHOCK CAUSED BY FAMILY TRAGEDY

Young Doheny Is Victim Of Insane Employee, Said

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 18.—E. L. Doheny, Sr., for years a dominant figure in the oil industry is in a critical condition here, suffering from shock caused by the death of his only son, E. L. Doheny, Jr., murdered by a private secretary who then committed suicide.

Detectives and police kept the curious out of earshot at the Doheny home while physicians attended the multimillionaire. Doheny collapsed when informed of the tragedy.

The condition of the elder Doheny was considered extremely grave in view of his 73 years. He had just participated in a fight against government charges of fraud in the leasing of the Teapot Dome, a scandal which involved Albert B. Fall, secretary of the interior under President Harding.

A short time ago he retired believing his dreams of continued Doheny domination realized through his 36-year-old son.

While doctors sought to save the aged father, the coroner's office was preparing for an inquest over the bodies of the son and of Hugh Plunkett, the secretary.

Officials and witnesses appeared agreed that the private secretary killed his employer and then himself when he suddenly went insane after a nervous illness over a period of several months.

Doheny, Jr., was shot through the temple as he sat in a ground-floor bedroom of his palatial home, early Sunday. Plunkett, with a soft-sole bullet through his brain, died in the hallway of the bedroom.

The widow, prominent in Southern California social circles, heard the shot that killed her husband, District Attorney Burton Fitts said today, but she believed the noise was caused by a piece of falling furniture.

Dr. Fishbaugh, summoned in advance, arrived just after the first shot and in time to see Plunkett dart from the bedroom into a hallway, rush back into the room and slam the door.

An instant later, the second bullet was fired. Mrs. Doheny and Dr. Fishbaugh opened the door and found the two bodies.

As reconstructed by authorities, Plunkett, torn by the fear that Doheny and Dr. Fishbaugh would send him to a sanitarium for treatment, crept close to Doheny and shot him without warning.

As the body of the young millionaire slumped to the floor, Plunkett turned and ran, hoping to escape. As he opened the door, however, he saw Mrs. Doheny and Dr. Fishbaugh, and returned to the bedroom for refuge.

Apparently he shot himself as the door swung shut.

Dr. Fishbaugh said Plunkett seemed to have been in a highly nervous state for several weeks and Doheny had requested that he go to a sanitarium. Dr. Fishbaugh also recommended a short visit to a sanitarium.

It was Doheny, Jr., who carried the famous "little black bag" containing $100,000 from New York to Washington, and which was given to Albert Fall, then secretary of the interior.

Doheny was an only son.

SUB-COMMITTEE
PROBES PAYMENTS

PARIS, Feb. 18.—A sub-committee of two men was appointed by the reparations experts conference today to find a short cut through Dr. Jhalmar Schacht's long exposition of Germany's economic condition.

The sub-committee was instructed to report to tomorrow's meeting more detailed plans of procedure along these lines, and the conference then adjourned for the day.

FIFTY DROWNED

LIMA, PERU, Feb. 18.—Fifty persons were feared drowned near Uchumbamba, department of Junin, when an earthquake accompanied by a torrential rainfall caused the river to overflow on February 17, dispatches from Juaja received here said.

"FASTING MARTYR" WINS FATHER INTO FOLD

NEW HAMPSHIRE, O., Feb. 18.—Fred Conrad, the "fasting martyr" of New Hampshire, is going to dine copiously Friday night if his father, George, a grocer, keeps his promise.

The elder Conrad has promised to join the New Hampshire Methodist Church, thus effecting a compromise with his son who began fasting thirty-six days ago "because his father was possessed of the devil."

YOUNG COUPLE DEAD AND FIVE SERIOUSLY HURT NEAR FREMONT

Nine Injured When Bus Hits Truck Near Huron

Automobile accidents claimed their apparently inevitable toll in Ohio over the week end.

Perhaps the most tragic crash occurred near Fremont where Carl Strohl, a high school student, and Miss Ardis Hager, 18, of Carrothers, a student nurse, were killed when two automobiles collided.

Five others were injured in the same accident, three of them perhaps fatally.

They are Raymond Schwartz, 21, and Neal Nickoy, 24, of Fremont; Leonard Hager, 20, Miss Hager's brother; Elsie Brillhart, 18, and Elmer McClellan, 18, of Atica.

The accident occurred when the roadster in which Strohl, Nicky and Schwartz were riding passed another machine and side-swiped the car in which the other victims were riding.

In Columbus, William J. Cummings, 75, was killed when he was struck by a machine. The driver was exonerated.

Three Columbus children were injured so seriously two of them may die. One of them was hit by a Hocking Valley switch engine and the other two by automobiles.

Nine persons were injured, six seriously, when a bus and truck collided near Huron. The seriously injured were taken to Sandusky hospitals. The were all members of the Al Barlow Rainbow Theatrical Review, as follows: Peter Brady, Boston; Jack Goodwin, Northampton, Mass.; William Hamlet, Providence, R. I.; Mrs. Hamlet; Dorothy Rawlinson, Providence and R. M. Gano, Providence.

The collision occurred when the bus, conveying the troupe from Bellefonte, Pa., to Findlay, crashed head-on into the truck. Authorities are investigating. The others injured also were passengers aboard the bus. Five passengers escaped uninjured.

CRITICIZE TUNNEY FOR PRESS ATTACK

NEW YORK, Feb. 18.—Gene Tunney, retired heavyweight champion of the world, came in for considerable adverse criticism in London sporting and social circles today for his attack on a group of news photographers and reporters who approached him at a hotel in Cannes, France, on Saturday. He refused to talk to the reporters.

Dispatches said Tunney scattered the photographers, knocked their cameras around and jumped at one of the camera men, hitting him repeatedly.

The Daily Express said today in an editorial:

"Tunney made a fortune from his fame as a fighter. That fame was made for him with the assistance of the photographers and press agents. To knock out one of the men who helped to advance him from obscurity to the American social register makes one wonder if he is not suffering from a swollen head."

Tunney is passing ten days at Cannes prior to going to Rome and Florence.

FREIGHTER IS SAFE

NEW YORK, Feb. 18.—The freighter Padma, which sent out an SOS Saturday reporting that her rudder was broken, is proceeding toward the Azores, a message to the Radio Marine Corporation last night said. The message did not say how the rudder had been repaired.

LINDBERGH TO LEAVE CAPITAL
AFTER CONFERENCE SERIES

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18.—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh is expected to take off from Bolling Field for New York shortly after noon today. He has before him until that time a series of important conferences. It is understood among them are appointments with Speaker of the House Longworth; Paul Henderson, of the T. A. T.; Major Lamplier, and Assistant Postmaster General Glover.

Lindbergh arrived at Bolling Field in his fast pursuit plane yesterday at 3:33 p. m. after a most gruelling flight from Sapelo Island, Ga. The flight took him from early Friday until yesterday afternoon, dangerous flying conditions forcing the delay.

It was learned definitely Lindbergh will not be in Washington for the inaugural ceremonies. Those close to him say he will probably be on the west coast on March 4 on his inspection trip for the T. A. T. He expects to start the trip within a very few days. It will cover the entire transcontinental route including Columbus, Ohio.

WILL PROBE DEATH

LOGAN, O., Feb. 18.—Sheriff W. R. Lloyd and deputies and Constable J. T. Miller left here today for Laureville, Hocking County, to investigate the death of William Stewart whose body was found at Sam's Creek earlier today. Lloyd said he was advised Stewart apparently had been murdered. Bloodhounds were taken along.

SERIOUSLY ILL

E. L. Doheny, Sr., above, is reported in a serious condition from collapse following the murder of his son.

BORAH WILL ANSWER
REED'S CHARGES OF
SENATE HYPOCRISY

Missourian Flays Solons
Who Drink Wet,
Vote Dry

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18.—Propriety of public officials drinking liquor and voting for prohibition measures was to be treated from the dry side of the question in the senate today as the week end prohibition debate is resumed by the outstanding orators of congress.

Senator William E. Borah of Idaho, who used the dry side so effectively as leading campaigner for Herbert Hoover in the recent presidential campaign, prepared to answer Senator James A. Reed, Missouri, the Cocco of the wet.

The exchange of sentiments will proceed a vote on the pending Jones bill proposing maximum penalties of five years in jail and $10,000 fines for violators of the prohibition law.

The measure had been scheduled for passage quietly Saturday, until Reed delivered a characteristically sarcastic speech berating "the hypocrisy of congress," who fail to adhere to their public position in their private life. Reed went so far as to threaten to make a list of those who he has known in his eighteen years in congress to be "wet drinkers and dry voters."

"It will not be many years before the moral sensibilities of the American people will awake," said Reed, "to the fact that the prohibition law is the worst crime in the history of the United States and that the reign of hypocrisy and cant, of false pretense and of chicanery and fraud will come to an ignominious end."

"The day will come when the man who votes for prohibition, but who himself violates the letter and spirit of the law, will be held in that kind of contempt which ought to be visited upon the knavish hypocrite who masks himself behind pretended virtue and who seeks to hold office by virtue of his false pretenses."

The senate has not heard such castigations of some of its members since the prohibition law was enacted and some senators left the chamber during Reed's speech.

The Reed speech jeopardized the Jones bill to which there had not previously been strong opposition, but it's proponents say they will pass it anyway and send it to the house before nightfall.

The abandonment of the limited debate rule was a great concession because of the legislative jam in which the senate finds itself with adjournment of congress scheduled two weeks from today.

SHOT TRYING TO ESCAPE ARREST

IRONTON, O., Feb. 18.—Floyd Miller, 27, shot when he tried to escape from two deputies, was near death today.

The shooting occurred when the deputies went to Miller's home to arrest him on an indictment charging assault.

After submitting to arrest Miller suddenly jerked away and ran. Both deputies fired simultaneously but only one bullet found its mark.

Physicians say Miller has little chance of recovery.

Miller, according to officials, is under parole from Akron, O., for highway robbery.

Three members of Miller's family have already died "with their boots on." His father was killed by a Scioto County constable several years ago. A brother, Roy Miller, died in an alleged hijacking feud near Ashland, Ky., and another brother, Owey Miller, was killed in a similar feud near Steubenville, O.

FATHER NEAR DEATH FROM SHOCK CAUSED BY FAMILY TRAGEDY

Young Doheny Is Victim Of Insane Employee, Said

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 18.—E. L. Doheny, Sr., for years a dominant figure in the oil industry is in a critical condition here, suffering from shock caused by the death of his only son, E. L. Doheny, Jr., murdered by a private secretary who then committed suicide.

Detectives and police kept the curious out of earshot at the Doheny home while physicians attended the multimillionaire. Doheny collapsed when informed of the tragedy.

The condition of the elder Doheny was considered extremely grave in view of his 73 years. He had just participated in a fight against government charges of fraud in the leasing of the Teapot Dome, a scandal which involved Albert B. Fall, secretary of the interior under President Harding.

A short time ago he retired believing his dreams of continued Doheny domination realized through his 36-year-old son.

While doctors sought to save the aged father, the corporation's office was preparing for an inquest over the bodies of the son and of Hugh Plunkett, the secretary.

Officials and witnesses appeared agreed that the private secretary killed his employer and then himself when he suddenly went insane after a nervous illness over a period of several months.

Doheny, Jr., was shot through the temple as he sat in a ground-floor bedroom of his palatial home, early Sunday. Plunkett, with a soft-sole bullet through his brain, died in the hallway of the bedroom.

The widow, prominent in Southern California social circles, heard the shot that killed her husband, District Attorney Burton Fitts said today, but she believed the noise was caused by a piece of falling furniture.

Dr. Fishbaugh, summoned in advance, arrived just after the first shot and in time to see Plunkett dart from the bedroom into a hallway, rush back into the room and slam the door.

An instant later the second bullet was fired. Mrs. Doheny and Dr. Fishbaugh opened the door and found the two bodies.

As reconstructed by authorities, Plunkett, torn by the fear that Doheny and Dr. Fishbaugh would send him to a sanitarium for treatment, crept close to Doheny and shot him without warning.

As the body of the young millionaire slumped to the floor, Plunkett turned and ran, hoping to escape. As he opened the door, however, he saw Mrs. Doheny and Dr. Fishbaugh, and returned to the bedroom for refuge.

Apparently he shot himself as the door swung shut.

Dr. Fishbaugh said Plunkett seemed to have been in a highly nervous state for several weeks and Doheny had requested that he go to a sanitarium. Dr. Fishbaugh also recommended a short visit to a sanitarium.

It was Doheny, Jr., who carried the famous "black bag" containing $100,000 from New York to Washington and which was given to Albert Fall, then secretary of the interior.

Doheny was an only son.

National Farm Outlook

By ARTHUR H. JENKINS
Editor The Farm Journal
Published by special arrangement of Central Press and The Gazette with The Farm Journal.

The first flurry of New Year forecasts and business prognostications for 1929 having passed, and having been mostly forgotten by everybody, including the forecasters, let us make a brief adventure into the land of prophecy.

Not only farmers, themselves, but many other classes of our population look anxiously to the future, wondering what 1929 will bring for the farming business—and with ample reason.

Bankers, insurance men, manufacturers, salesmen, storekeepers, produce men, grain men, packers, railroad men, politicians, editors like myself—all have roots that extend into the soil of the farms. All are hoping that 1929 will be the year that will bring back the solid rural prosperity of 1913, if not the boom days of 1919.

Let me admit at once that nobody knows the first thing about it.

Not even the great organization of the federal department of agriculture at Washington, with the world's best fact-gathering facilities, and some of the world's best guessers, can make more than a feeble and timid effort at forecasting farm conditions.

Acresages planted to certain crops can be and are measured—but the volume harvested depends wholly on the weather, on diseases and on insect pests.

Animals on farms and coming to market can be counted and estimated closely—but who knows how much meat, and which meat, the average city family is going to buy six months from now?

"Cycles" of production and prices can be painfully worked out—but cycles have a mean habit of ceasing to revolve, just as we have them nicely charted.

Worst of all, prosperity on the farm depends not so much on farm prices as on the relative levels of crop prices and prices of other commodities. To foresee how farming will stand this year, we must also foresee how most other businesses will stand.

It is hopeless, then, to try to figure how farmers will get along in 1929? No, not quite hopeless.

Luckily, we can usually rely on a fairly stable condition of things, taking the average of the whole country, and all the various branches of farming. Lines that are depressed, like the potato and tobacco specialists in 1928, balance others that are flourishing, like the feeders of beef cattle. The total value of farm production has been remarkably uniform for several years.

Without too great risk, therefore, we can assume that if there is a big change in farm conditions this year, it will be due to some new influence, entirely outside the business.

And such a new influence will appear, I think, in the passage by congress, at some time during the year, of two enormously important laws.

The first is a new scale of import duties on agricultural products, on a much higher level than ever before known in our history, aiming to put farm products on a truly protected basis. The other is the new agrarian law, probably resembling the bill which Senator McNary of Oregon now has pending in the senate.

The new tariff law should be distinctly beneficial to farm prices, just as soon as it goes into effect. So that its influence for 1929 depends wholly on when it gets through congress.

The farm marketing bill will take much longer to get into action. Its immediate effect will be psychological only, and I am not at all sure that any movement of prices that results will be upward. Much depends, of course on just what the law proposes to do.

All other conditions appear to me reasonably favorable. The supply of money and credit, the volume of production of manufactures, the wage scales and employment of workmen all seem normal.

Weighting all these conditions, with others less important, I am reasonably optimistic for 1929 on the farms. The year should be as good as 1928 and may easily be better.

If there is virtue in the protective tariff, as applied for the first time to raw materials, 1929 may be much better.

SURGEON SAVES BABE

Love Or Infatuation - By Laird

In courtship days lovers constantly ask each other, "Do you love me?" It were better if each asked themselves, "Do I really love, or is this a passing fancy, an infatuation of the moment?"

Absence is said to make the heart grow fonder, but the acid test is in the presence, not the absence, of the beloved. Can I go through years and years of close companionship with this person at whom I am looking, seeing always that face across from me at the breakfast table, greeting me at night, in prosperity and adversity? Physical attractiveness fails to charm, is not even noticed, when the horrible specters of poverty or sickness are stalking. The mind, the spirit, are what will then determine whether this man and woman make a success of their marriage venture or end it in disaster.

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

A Whole Meal in One Swallow!

WE ALL know the value of vegetables, and the reader may know just which vegetables are best for the inner system. But it's another thing to eat them in sufficient quantities! Why not get the benefit of their goodness in the pleasant form of syrup pepsin?

There is as much good in a spoon of syrup pepsin as one would get from a basketful of vegetables. Those who have learned this secret of health don't have to pamper their stomachs, or whip-up their bowels with a lot of strong medicines. They seldom, if ever, have liver trouble and can usually eat anything.

So, don't give up rich foods. Don't go on a dull vegetable "diet." Just take a spoonful of syrup pepsin now and then—and forget everything else but your appetite at the table! If you have never made the syrup pepsin test, ten days may do surprising things for you—no matter how "flat" you may feel now. Children are helped wonderfully by this same skillful combination of laxative herbs and pure pepsin. Older people ward off auto-intoxication the same way. It is more than fifty years since Dr. Caldwell gave the world this prescription, yet today there is no druggist who hasn't it all put up and ready for you with directions.

EXPECT MORE THAN 500 HERE FOR I. G. A. BANQUET MONDAY NIGHT

Reservations Monday indicated that more than 500 people will attend the Independent Grocers' Alliance banquet at the Masonic Temple Monday night at 8 o'clock as guests of the I. G. A. and of The Eavey Co., wholesale supply depot for this district.

The guests are coming from within a radius of sixty miles of Xenia and buses and special cars will bring many of them to Xenia. The local meeting will be one of a chain of similar meetings being held throughout thirty-two states and between 10:30 and 11 o'clock, all will be linked in a huge radio hook-up over the Columbia chain.

from New York when J. Frank Grimes, president of I. G. A., will deliver a message to the various assemblies.

The I. G. A. Orchestra will furnish music on this radio program and the national program will be augmented and supplemented by a local program arranged by Xenia members and officials of The Eavey Co. Henry Eavey, who will be toastmaster for the banquet, is promising the guests plenty of entertainment during and after the banquet. Miss "T", Miss "G" and Miss "A" will be presented in a group of popular songs and there will be several addresses.

The meat of the entertainment however, will be a surprise to guests and is being kept a dark secret by those in charge of the meeting. The national radio program will be broadcast from WOR or WABC, New York, and will be carried through WKRC, Cincinnati, WLAC, Nashville and other Columbia chain stations. The dinner meeting here will be in the nature of a "meet the family" affair.

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

JUDGE GOWDY AGAIN HEADS LAW LIBRARY ASSOCIATION HERE

Common Pleas Judge R. L. Gowdy was re-elected chairman of the Greene County Law Library Association for 1929 at the annual organization meeting in the law library room at the Court House Saturday afternoon.

Other present officers were also re-elected for another year as follows: Attorney J. A. Finney, secretary-treasurer, and Attorney W. L. Miller, librarian.

Judge H. L. Smith, one of the founders of the association in Xenia, was made an honorary member of the association and of the board of trustees for life.

Attorney Harry D. Smith was elected a trustee of the organization, filling the vacancy caused by the death of Attorney Marcus Shoup. The other trustees, again selected for the coming year, are: Judge R. L. Gowdy, Judge H. L. Smith, Attorney W. L. Miller and Attorney C. L. Darlington.

The trustees have charge of the operation of the library, purchasing of books and general supervision.

Mayor's Court

A suspended fine of $50 and costs imposed upon E. E. Franks, 40 Roger St., last Tuesday for intoxication was ordered enforced by Mayor Karl R. Babb Monday morning when Franks was again brought into court on a charge of drunkenness. It marked the fourth time Franks has been prosecuted on such a charge in the last three years, police say.

Franks was arrested by police Sunday after it is alleged he assaulted his wife. His wife failed to appear in court Monday to file an affidavit against him with the result Mayor Babb ordered him committed to the County Jail on the old fine, which had been suspended on his promise to refrain from drinking.

Charles Coates, 23, one of three youths alleged to have been involved in recent burglaries of the J. C. Penney Co. and Huston-Bickett Hardware Store, E. Main St., pleaded not guilty to a charge of receiving stolen goods when arraigned before Mayor Karl R. Babb Monday morning. He will be given a hearing Tuesday morning.

Disposition of the cases of Harold Cyphers, 17, and James Burton, 19, held in connection with the same case, will await the arrival of a field agent from the Boys' Industrial School, at Lancaster, O., Tuesday.

Cyphers is said to have confessed to robbing both stores himself but implicated Burton and Coates to the extent that they both participated in a division of the stolen property, police say. The two youths admitted receiving property from Cyphers but denied knowledge of the fact it had been stolen.

Herbert Edward McCormick, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Ervin McCormick, died Friday at the home of his parents, 908 E. Third St. The baby was born last December 21. Besides his parents he is survived by two brothers, James E. and Howard R., his paternal and maternal grandparents and great grandmother. Brief funeral services were held Monday morning at the home. Burial was made in Cherry Grove cemetery.

DEATH ACCIDENTAL. KEWANEE, Ill., Feb. 18.—A coroner's jury here returned an open verdict in connection with the death of Eddie Chandler, Moline boxer. Chandler died Saturday night after he had been injured in a bout with Lou Denny, Aurora, Friday. Hemorrhage, due to concussion of the brain, caused the boxer's death, the jury decided.

FADING LINE OF BLUE

Death Wipes Out Another G. A. R. Post And Commander Whistles Taps

COMMANDER O'SHAUGHNESSY STOOD ALONE ON THE ROSTRUM

By ROY J. GIBBONS Staff Writer for Central Press and The Gazette

CHICAGO, Feb. 18.—Time has erased the thin blue line that was Julius White Post No. 240, of the Grand Army of the Republic. Only faded memories remain to four old men, creaking their painful way to meet the Great Commander.

Julius White Post No. 240 has come to an end. And only Thomas O'Shaughnessy, 87, the last commander, was there when fate sounded taps, a feeble, sad, haunting taps, out of time and cracked, for Commander O'Shaughnessy himself whistled it through his dry and wrinkled old lips.

Four left out of 130 that roared out "Tentin' Tonight" in brave baritone in 1892. Four, one blind, one confined to his bed and a third too weak to walk.

In the vast drill hall of the 132nd infantry, national guard, Commander O'Shaughnessy stood alone on the rostrum. Not a whisper echoed down the block-long building. The commander drew out the post's roll call. Silently he intoned the 130 names. Dead. All dead, except—where were Comrades Orville Z. Barber, Co. I, 153rd Illinois infantry; Fred Bristol, Co. D, 53rd Illinois infantry, and William Wylie, Co. D, 2nd Minnesota infantry?

Down the long hall sounded halting steps. A prim, faded old lady in black. She had come to answer the roll call for her husband, too ill in bed to come himself.

"Comrade Wylie," said she. "I met the Great Commander."

She had come to answer the roll call for her husband, too ill in bed to come himself.

"Comrade Wylie," said she. "I met the Great Commander."

am reporting for Comrade Wylie." Commander O'Shaughnessy unashamedly wiped two blistering tears away.

"Gone, all gone," he muttered. In an envelope he placed a strip of vellum on which the ink of the post's charter had been dry for four decades. Solemnly his cracked lips whistled taps. It was a soldier's instinct. The old post was dead. He sealed the envelope and addressed it to Comrade John Reese, of Broken Bow, Neb., national commander of the G. A. R.

"There are twenty-six other posts in Chicago," the commander said, later. "Some are little better off than mine. In all they number less than a thousand of the boys who wore the blue."

"Thirty years ago the G. A. R. in Chicago numbered 100,000 men. Today 99,000 are only names. I can't help being distressed at my most going out of existence. But the end must come to all. There has been talk of combining all posts into one large organization, but nothing probably ever will come of it."

"We are too old to reorganize, and in a little while there will be no need of it. You see, members want to stick to their old outfits to the end of the way all over the country. What about me? Why, I shall probably visit the other posts on meeting night. It won't be for long."

The thin blue line is thinning fast. The sharply etched memories are fading. Even now the bugle probably is blowing taps for another of the boys in blue, and Commander O'Shaughnessy, the last limb upon the tree salutes, for camp fires are gleaming in the bivouac of the dead.

WEAKENED VICTIMS OF FLU EPIDEMIC NEED STRENGTH-BUILDING FOOD TONIC

Father John's Medicine Of Great Value In Rebuilding Health

Following the Flu epidemic which swept the country comes a period of great danger to those who have suffered from the disease even in its milder forms, who find themselves unable to regain normal strength and health.

This weakness which seems to make recovery so hard and long-delayed is a period of special danger because the resisting power of the system is lowered and the patient has little strength to fight off colds, coughs and other more serious illnesses.

During this time of danger the same tonic for all the family is Father John's Medicine. This old-fashioned pure and wholesome food medicine contains strength-building, health-giving elements which are easily taken up by the weakened system and quickly made into new strength and health. Contains no narcotic drugs in any form.

WINS JUDGMENT AS ACCIDENT RESULT

Enoch Nooks, Old Town, has been authorized in Common Pleas Court to collect an award of $752.71 made in his favor by the State Industrial Commission July 10, 1928 against J. R. Derrick and Ed Hubbard, doing business as the City Market Co., as a result of loss of vision of the right eye in an accident which occurred August 13, 1924 while in the employ of the defendants.

The original finding was returned under the workmen's compensation law. The state of Ohio, through Attorney General Edward C. Turner, brought suit on behalf of Nooks at the request of the industrial commission to collect the award. Judgment for the full amount was awarded by default when the defendants failed to appear.

JUDGE GOWDY AGAIN HEADS LAW LIBRARY ASSOCIATION HERE

Common Pleas Judge R. L. Gowdy was re-elected chairman of the Greene County Law Library Association for 1929 at the annual organization meeting in the law library room at the Court House Saturday afternoon.

Other present officers were also re-elected for another year as follows: Attorney J. A. Finney, secretary-treasurer, and Attorney W. L. Miller, librarian.

Judge H. L. Smith, one of the founders of the association in Xenia, was made an honorary member of the association and of the board of trustees for life.

Attorney Harry D. Smith was elected a trustee of the organization, filling the vacancy caused by the death of Attorney Marcus Shoup. The other trustees, again selected for the coming year, are: Judge R. L. Gowdy, Judge H. L. Smith, Attorney W. L. Miller and Attorney C. L. Darlington.

The trustees have charge of the operation of the library, purchasing of books and general supervision.

MAYOR'S COURT FINED AGAIN

A suspended fine of $50 and costs imposed upon F. E. Franks, 40, Roger St., last Tuesday for intoxication was ordered enforced by Mayor Karl R. Babb Monday morning when Franks was again brought into court on a charge of drunkenness. It marked the fourth time Franks has been prosecuted on such a charge in the last three years, police say.

Franks was arrested by police Sunday after it is alleged he assaulted his wife. His wife failed to appear in court Monday to file an affidavit against him with the result Mayor Babb ordered him committed to the County Jail on the old fine, which had been suspended on his promise to refrain from drinking.

HOUSE DESTROYED

Fire of unknown origin destroyed the home of Albert F. Wells at Belmont at 3 o'clock Sunday morning, entailing a loss estimated at $5,000. The Wells family left a small fire in the furnace which was expected to go out in a few hours, when they went away from the house Saturday afternoon, and a neighbor discovered the blaze. Belmont and Beavertown fire departments were called. The cause of the fire is to be investigated by the state fire marshal.

FADING LINE OF BLUE

Death Wipes Out Another G. A. R. Post And Commander Whistles Taps

Thomas O'Shaughnessy

By ROY J. GIBBONS
Staff Writer for Central Press and The Gazette

CHICAGO, Feb. 18.—Time has erased the thin blue line that was Julius White Post No. 249, of the Grand Army of the Republic. Only faded memories remain to four old men, creaking their painful way to meet the Great Commander.

Julius White Post No. 249 has come to an end. And only Thomas O'Shaughnessy, 57, the last commander, was there when fate sounded taps, a feeble, sad, haunting taps, out of tune and cracked, for Commander O'Shaughnessy himself whistled it through his dry and wrinkled old lips.

Four left out of 130 that roared out "Tentin' Tonight" in brave baritone in 1892. Four, one blind, one confined to his bed and a third too weak to walk.

In the vast drill hall of the 132nd Infantry, national guard, Commander O'Shaughnessy stood alone on the rostrum. Not a whisper echoed down the block-long building. The commander drew out the post's roll call. Silently he intoned the 130 names. Dead. All dead, except—where were Comrades Orville Z. Barber, Co. I, 153rd Illinois Infantry; Fred Bristol, Co. D, 53rd Illinois Infantry, and William Wylie, Co. D, 2nd Minnesota Infantry?

Down the long hall sounded halting steps. A prim, faded old lady in black. She had come to answer the roll call for her husband, too ill in bed to come himself.

"Comrade Wylie," said she, "I am reporting for Comrade Wylie."

Commander O'Shaughnessy unashamedly wiped two blistering tears away.

"Gone, all gone," he muttered. In an envelope he placed a strip of vellum on which the ink of the post's charter had been dry for four decades. Solemnly his cracked lips whistled taps. It was a soldier's instinct. The old post was dead. He sealed the envelope and addressed it to Comrade John Reese, of Broken Bow, Neb. national commander of the G. A. R.

"There are twenty-six other posts in Chicago," the commander said, later. "Some are little better off than mine. In all they number less than a thousand of the boys who wore the blue."

"Thirty years ago the G. A. R. in Chicago numbered 100,000 men. Today 99,000 are only names. I can't help being distressed at my post going out of existence. But the end must come to all. There has been talk of combining all posts into one large organization, but nothing probably ever will come of it."

"We are too old to reorganize, and in a little while there will be no need of it. You see, members want to stick to their old outfits to the end. It's that way all over the country. What about me? Why, I shall probably visit the other posts on meeting night. It won't be for long."

The thin blue line is thinning fast. The sharply etched memories are fading. Even now the bugle probably is blowing taps for another of the boys in blue, and Commander O'Shaughnessy, the last limb upon the tree salutes, for camp fires are gleaming in the bivouac of the dead.

WINS JUDGMENT AS ACCIDENT RESULT

Enoch Nooks, Old Town, has been authorized in Common Pleas Court to collect an award of $752.71 made in his favor by the State Industrial Commission July 10, 1928 against J. R. Derrick and Ed Hubbard, doing business as the City Market Co., as a result of loss of vision of the right eye in an accident which occurred August 13, 1924 while in the employ of the defendants.

The original finding was retried under the workmen's compensation law. The state of Ohio, through Attorney General Edward C. Turner, brought suit on behalf of Nooks at the request of the industrial commission to collect the award. Judgment for the full amount was awarded by default when the defendants failed to appear.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

THE KING—Behold the days come, saith the Lord, that I will raise unto David a righteous Branch, and a King shall reign and prosper, and shall execute judgment and justice in the earth. 6 In his days Judah shall be saved, and Israel shall dwell safely: and this is his name whereby he shall be called THE LORD OUR RIGHTEOUSNESS.—Jeremiah 23: 5, 6.

SOME UNETHICAL PRACTICES

Much is heard and read of the ethics—or lack of them—of the butcher, the baker, grocer and clothing merchant. It is not uncommon for a dissatisfied customer to accuse the corner druggist of shrewd and selfish practices, or the dairyman of selling water.

But how about the ethics of the public itself? The question is put by a retail merchant writing in The Golden Book magazine.

"How about their ethics in demanding first-class and instant service and then taking their own sweet time to settle the bill?" he asks. "If the debtor is a representative citizen we can whistle for our money in vain, and that is about the size of it. If we ventured to remind one of these proud ones that his delinquency made him the recipient of our charity, we might as well close our doors at once.

"We are literally held up as a matter of course to supply goods and service gratis for every church fair, Daughters-of-Rachel sale, Sons-of-John supper, and street sweepers aid concert—and woe be unto us if we dare to present even a small bill.

"How about the ethics of adorning one's home with goods sent on approval and taken back after the party with the comment, 'they don't seem to be just what we want.' Perhaps when you have a wider choice we may be able to decide on something."

LITTLE TO SCRAP ABOUT

The airplane and the airship have made many out of the way spots and waste places important to the nations owning them, and as the years unroll, isolated spots, and particularly isolated island peaks, are likely to become more and more valuable because of their strategic positions, if for no other reason.

Even so, it seems slightly ridiculous for Great Britain and Argentina to engage in a controversy over the ownership of the South Orkney islands because the government in Buenos Aires is maintaining wireless and meteorological stations on one of them, and the government in London has some vague claim to sovereignty, or thinks it has.

The South Orkneys are about due west from the South Shetland islands, which lie far below the tip of Patagonia within the ice pack region, and leaped into brief fame a few years ago because Sir Ernest Shackleton and his men took refuge on one of them after living for months on an ice flow. The South Orkneys are lonely rocks, known chiefly to adventurous whalers, and are so unimportant that even the Encyclopedia Britannica fails to notice them, although it recognizes the existence of islands on all sides of them. If any country can make any use of the points of land, that country certainly ought to be allowed the privileges of doing so without going through a lot of red tape adjustment with some other country that has no use for them and possesses only a technical title, at the most, and Argentina says that Great Britain doesn't possess even that.

NEW YORK—From Rita's column in the Chicago Evepost comes a clipping contributed to Rita by "Wally Wampus," who says, among other things: "With faint amusement, I have watched Ben (Effronte) quip Hecht develop into Manhattan's official deejay."

Then Mr. Wampus points out that Mr. Hecht has crushed Eugene O'Neill's dramas by calling them "intellectual shell games," and labeled Mr. Menckens "a literary circus barker" and "an intellectual Lord Fauntleroy." Wampus also reveals that Mr. Hecht tagged Hollywood Brown "a drug store radical" and St. John Edvine "a cultural Brisbane multiplied by twelve." "I have the temerity," concludes Wampus, "to point out a victim to Mr. Hecht. Surely that denuded of the tea tables, Thornton Wilder, needs auditing, and wide-eyed Walter Winchell is begging for a nice little exposure."

How embarrassing! Lois Long ("Lip-Lick" in the New Yorker) recently holidayed at Palm Beach, Fla., where, one night, she frequented Bradley's, the ogle-goggle gawling place, where they wear stiff shirts and are stiffer so stiff. Miss Long was suddenly seized with hiccupping (hiccupping to you), so she urged a snooty waiter to bring a glass of water.

The waiter tilted his nose and said: "Water."

"Yes, Eleven's sake, hurry please!" hiccupped Miss Long.

A few minutes later he brought the tumbler of water. The appreciative young woman handed him a quarter for a tip, and then got roughly told that she still was hot polloi, for he handed her

THE SOUTH

Judged by the amount of income taxes paid in 1927-28 North Carolina is the third state in the union. That may astonish some people. It will not astonish those who know North Carolina and the south. New paved roads, fine office buildings in growing and prosperous cities, excellent newspapers that sell properly at five cents a copy, magnificent banks, lovely homes and fertile fields—to say nothing of climate—are all characteristic of the new south. And fortunately the new south has not departed from the glories and the charm of the old. They have done a remarkable thing in the south. They have preserved mellowness in progress.

CHALLENGE TO DEMOCRACY

Let's not be short sighted enough to think, because the experiment of democracy is tried in America and some other places, that of necessity it is the best of all possible governments. In Russia they have Communism, in Italy they have Fascism. In various countries all over the earth, there are modifications of government. We believe we are on the right track. But let's keep our heads up, our eyes open, and look often toward and beyond the horizon.

WHO DOES THE THINKING?

Not long ago attention was called to the fact that there were but 250 names on the roll of the National Academy of Science. A late edition of American Men of Science contains about 16,000 names. The American Association for the Advancement of Science has about 12,000 members. It has been said there are not in this world of a billion and three-quarters people more than 100,000 persons whose efforts are responsible for the advancement of science. These are the people who are doing most of the creative thinking and creative work of the world. The rest of us stumble after.

EQUAL FREEDOM OF EDUCATIONAL OPPORTUNITY URGED

By DAVID KINLEY
President, University of Illinois.
David Kinley was born at Dundee, Scotland, Aug. 2, 1861. Coming to the United States with his father in 1872, he was graduated from Yale and later studied at Johns Hopkins and the University of Wisconsin. He was principal of a high school for six years at N. Amherst, Mass., then taught at Johns Hopkins for a year; at Woman's college, Baltimore, and then the University of Wisconsin. He became professor of economics there in 1894 and was later dean of the graduate school for many years. Later becoming acting president at Wisconsin, for a year, he was chosen president of the University of Illinois in 1920. He has served as special envoy to Chile on a number of financial commissions, and has written several books on economical subjects.

As a bar to class education and an aid to the policy of higher education for as large a number as possible, state supported universities stand as the bulwarks protecting the future of our democracy.

The public schools, the state supported colleges and universities of our country, were established and have been continued in order to give equal freedom of educational opportunity to all.

The main principle underlying their administration has been and is to keep an open road to the higher levels of education for as many as could walk that road. Long ago they learned that genius and talent do not belong to any class based upon wealth or social position. They recognize differences due to ability and to a desire to achieve.

Their purpose is not to educate as few as possible, but as many as possible.

Much has been written about educating leaders but we cannot select leaders in advance of their development of the powers of leadership.

We cannot pick the great business man of 20 years from now the young men of 19 and 20 in colleges although some profess to be able to do so. It has been said that some, if not most, of the successful business and professional men in our cities are drawn from the country.

The great mass had equal opportunities, the attempt to avail themselves of these opportunities developed the leaders.

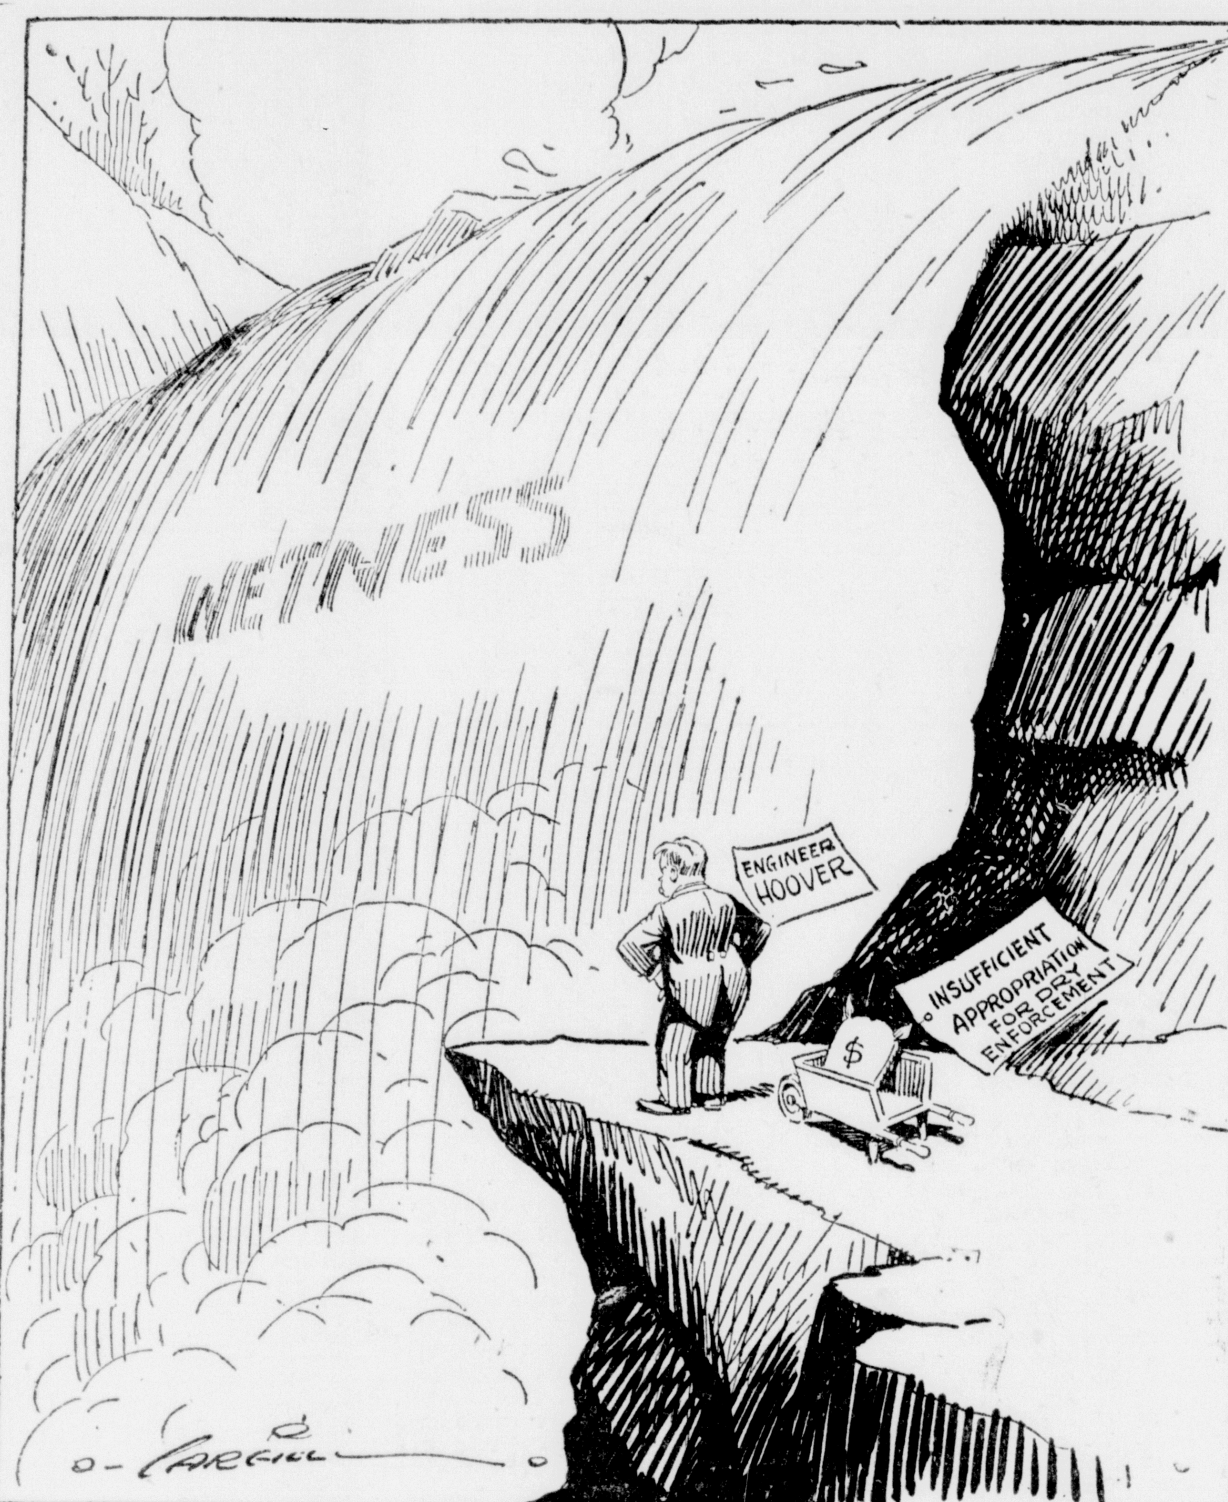

It is out of the great mass that leaders emerge, not by pre-selection but by strenuous effort to avail themselves of the opportunities for advancement, through education.

How to Achieve Beauty
BY MME. HELENA RUBINSTEIN

No matter how pretty your feet are, if you don't know how to use them they are not serving at full value to you as beauty accessories. Very few people, particularly people of middle age, know how to walk properly. Have you ever noticed how dragged down and deliberate the motions of walking become when one passes the active age of youth? Of course, it is not always actual foot positions which are to blame. Sometimes one needs to diet a bit, for careless eating results in deposits in the feet, which are the weakest organs of circulation. A simple diet can very often restore youth and "pop" to your walking.

To bathe the feet every night, first in hot and then cold water, will tone up the circulation and help to produce some of that "pop" and vitality which comes from properly-cared-for feet. The proper method of walking is very important. One needs a strong inner arch to keep up the onward pace of modern life. Learning to walk with the weight on the outer arch and by practicing heel and toe exercises, you can strengthen the important bones of the feet.

Awkward feet are very prevalent, and often one cannot blame them on circulation alone, for a great many of us, through just carelessness or bad habits, do all the things with our feet we should not do, and fall utterly to do the things we should.

Have you ever looked at people's feet in a car or train? You will find yourself wondering why so many of them are so awkward. You think it would be very simple for one to learn the technique of graceful foot postures, and yet evidently it is not simple at all, for the majority of people seem to fall naturally into unlovely positions.

In these frank days of short skirts, one must pay close attention to the details of posture, and not the least of these is the way you hold your feet. It is ugly to see women with their feet sprawled all over, sometimes with the toes in, sometimes with their knees far apart. In fact, there must be dozens of awkward and angular combinations which otherwise lovely women subscribe to.

There is really one correct position for your feet to take when you are seated. They should be flat on the floor, very slightly turned out at the toe, and repositively straight before you.

Behind the Scenes in Washington
By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON.—"Indirect protection" is the latest wrinkle in tariff-making.

There are some things we do not—cannot—produce in America.

For instance, bananas are too tropical for our climate. Does it follow that we may as well let them in free?—Inasmuch as they cannot possibly compete with our domestic bananas—because we have none.

By no means. Our apple-growers want a hum-dinger of an import tax slapped on bananas, in order to make them prohibitively expensive.

The theory is that no bananas will drive us to eat more apples.

The field of this principle's applicability is almost limitless.

We bring hardly anything into the country for which our own producers could not conjure up some sort of a substitute. We may not like the substitute as well as we liked the original article—but look what it will do for home industry!

The idea is what promises to be the basis of our new tariff for agricultural relief.

Our protectionistic folk have insisted all along that the thing our farmers need is a good, high tariff wall to keep foreign crops from coming into the United States and underselling our local crops.

The farmers fell for this for a long time.

Finally, they began to see the flaw in the argument.

Generally speaking, America does not import farm products. Our farmers raise, right here at home, more than this country has been able to consume, and have to export the balance. Protection is no help to an exporter—on the contrary—it handicaps him.

a large exporter. It may not be true of an industry which sells the vast bulk of its output in home markets and only dumps a small surplus abroad, to avoid the expense of an occasional shutdown.

It certainly has been true of America's farmers.

As soon as this great light had dawned on our agricultural lawmakers, they set to work and evolved the original McNary-Haugen bill. Without entering into a big voluminous of explanations, suffice it to say that the bill's purpose was to put the protection principle in reverse, in the hope of benefiting our farmer-exporters.

How it would have worked, heaven knows.

At any rate, orthodox protectionists balked at it, declaring it "uneconomic." Among others, Herbert Hoover said so emphatically. He and his platform promised farm relief, but minus the McNary-Haugen stinger—the extraction of which Senator McNary agreed to, but never, so far as I ever heard, Representative Haugen.

However, the G. O. P. did pledge the farmers all the extra old-fashioned protection they want—not including the extracted stinger.

I admit I wondered how the farmers were going to get any nourishment out of this compact with the stinger eliminated. I can see now, after watching the house of representatives ways and means committee, at work on the new tariff bill.

The farmers mean to do it through "indirect protection."

They intend to expand that apple-banana idea into infinity. With the kindliest feelings in the world toward agriculture, I begin to feel sick of apples already.

Baked Cheese Omelet
Baked Apples
Whole Wheat Muffins
Celery or Lettuce,
French Dressing
Devil's Food Cake Coffee

This is a luncheon menu, with the cheese omelet as the principal dish. It will serve three.

Today's Recipes

Baked Cheese Omelet—One cup milk, two tablespoons cornmeal, one-half teaspoon salt, paprika, one-half cup grated cheese, two eggs. Scald the milk in a double boiler, add the salt and cornmeal. Stir until thick, then cook for 30 minutes; add the cheese and stir until melted. Add seasonings and the beaten egg yolks. Fold in the stiffly-beaten egg whites. Pour in a greased baking dish and bake in a slow oven (250 degrees Fahrenheit) until firm, about 20 minutes.

Whole Wheat Muffins—Two cups whole wheat flour, one cup sour milk, one-third cup molasses, three-fourths tea spoon soda, one teaspoon salt, one egg. Mix and sift the dry ingredients, add the milk to the molasses, add the beaten egg and combine the mixtures. Pour into gem pans and bake in a moderate oven (75 degrees Fahrenheit) 25 minutes.

Suggestion

Wide-Top Shades
In choosing lampshades remember that the shade with a wide top will diffuse light generally. A lamp so equipped should be placed in that part of the room where the draperies and walls will be most effectively reflected.

Wash the Tray

A neglected item in many a well ordered household is the tray that sets on top of the tea cart. Because of the dark wood beneath the surface of the glass, smudges or stains are likely to be overlooked until the tray is lifted while dinner or tea is being served. Make a mental note to include the washing of the tea cart tray in your list of daily duties. After you have dusted, go over the glass surface of the tray with a soapy cloth and polish with a clean, dry cloth.

Washing Stockings

The secret of making silk stockings last lies largely in the washing technique. Stocking manufacturers advocate washing stockings in warm (not hot) soapsuds before the first wearing and after each wearing. They must be thoroughly rinsed in clear water. Never wring them. Just squeeze the excess water out. This is the treatment they should also have before they are packed for future wear.

This Is a Good and Healthy Salad
Cabbage and Fruit Salad
(Mrs. Mary Morton's Daily Tested Recipe)

One small head cabbage, four or five medium-sized apples, one cup seedless raisins, mayonnaise dressing, lettuce. Shred cabbage very thin and let stand in cold water until crisp. Drain and dry. Arrange nest of cabbage on lettuce leaves on each salad plate. Pare apples and cut in one-half-inch cubes. Mix with raisins and mayonnaise. Arrange on cabbage and garnish with cherries. A wee bit of onion may be added to this salad if you like the flavor.

Diet and Health
BY LULU HUNT PETERS, M.D., AUTHOR OF "DIET AND HEALTH" AND "DIET FOR CHILDREN"

The Daily Foundation Diet.

E.—If you are more nervous while dieting to reduce, it may indicate that you are not dieting intelligently. Usually one feels better in every way while on a reducing diet.

Do you get the foundation diet in reducing? I'll run this again, for it is a good foundation for the diet of everyone, reducing or not.

FIRST: At least a half pound of some watery vegetables (the green leaf vegetables are especially good)—lettuce, spinach, celery, asparagus, watercress, beet top greens, cabbage, tomatoes, etc. A half pound of these, cooked or uncooked, without fat, approximately 50 C.

SECOND: A half pound of other vegetables—carrots, beets, onions, parsnips and squash, approximately 100 C. without fat.

THIRD: 200 to 300 calories of fruit—Good-sized orange, apple, pear—100 C. each. Best to take large share of the vegetables and fruits raw.

FOURTH: At least one pint of skim or buttermilk in some form—drinks, in cooking, or cheese. You need it for lime and complete protein.

FIFTH: One medium small potato, 100 C. OR one large slice whole wheat bread, one-half inch thick, same number of calories. OR two-thirds cup of cereal. If you have starchy or sugary desserts, omit these.

SIXTH: One to two teaspoons cod liver oil (35 calories each), or two to four cod liver oil tablets (practically no calories), or one tablespoonful butter (100 C.), or equivalent in cream—for your supply of vitamin A.

SEVENTH: Protein. You must have more protein, besides what you get in the milk, so take three to four ounces of very lean meat or fish or eggs (150 to 200 C. total).

What I have outlined consumes approximately to 800-1,000 C. That will leave you quite a few more calories for the things you like. But I advise you not to take sweets and fats, because it is best to learn not to care for them. Arrange your meals and menus to suit yourself.

Have you our pamphlet instructions on how to gain and lose weight? See column rules.

P.—Yes, you can eat oranges and drink milk at the same meal. Orange juice makes milk more easily digested.

"I received your article on the treatment of falling hair, and want to say that I have been very greatly benefited. I was not able to scrub my scalp with a brush every day, as it was inclined to make it sore, but I did it once a week and used a salve, generally white vaseline. My hair is coming in thicker than it was before, and although it was curly always, it curls much more than it did."

In beginning to scrub your scalp with your brushes, you should begin very gently, and gradually increase in vigor and the length of time. The scalp needs a daily cleansing, otherwise the daily scalings accumulate—and dandruff results. This may produce thinning and graying.

Tomorrow: Broadening Hips.

Editor's Note: Dr. Peters cannot diagnose, nor give personal advice. Your questions, if of general interest, will be answered in the column, in turn. Requests for articles must be accompanied by a fully self-addressed, stamped envelope and 2 cents in coin for each article, to cover cost of printing and handling. For the pamphlet on reducing and gaining, 10 cents in coin, with fully self-addressed, stamped envelope, must be enclosed. Address Dr. Peters, in care of this paper.

BRING IN THE VICE-PRESIDENTS

Times had reached a troublesome pass at the First National Bank of Miners, Merchants and Morons, and a meeting of the directors had been called.

"We've got to have a reorganization at once," the chairman announced.

"Why? What's the trouble?" a mere director asked.

"We've just discovered that we have three more depositors than we have vice presidents."

Living and Loving
BY MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

One admires the good person, we may even rhapsodize over him in private, but how often, oh how often, do we LOVE the horrible scoundrel that does all the things he ought not to do and cheerfully leaves undone all the things he ought to do.

Personally—I say it with shame—I have always secretly sympathized with the good brother of the prodigal son. I think it was pretty hard to go on working and slaving and suppressing his desire to rove, and then have such a fuss made over the prodigal when he got to the end of his rope and came home for help. I realize that it shows what a nasty disposition I have, but I'm going to be brave and acknowledge that that is how I've always felt about it. I know that I'd have done just as he did when he groused about that fatted calf business to his father.

A young girl asks me to decide which of two lovers she should marry and here is her letter.

"DEAR VIRGINIA LEE: You have helped others and I am sure you can help me. I need advice and need it quick. I love two boys, both of the same age. Now I have to choose which ONE it will be.

"No. 1 is kind and considerate, always willing to do his part. Not a spendthrift, but not a tightwad, either. Seems to love me in a kind and tender way and has always acted the gentleman in my presence. Also, he is a member of my church.

"No. 2 is not so thoughtful of anyone except himself. I have to get him up to keep him in a good humor. Also he is the kind that hates to turn a nickel loose. But he is just the kind that you can't resist, and I am always happier when I am with him. He is not a member of any church.

"Now, Mrs. Lee, which would make a better husband? I think I know which one you could be happy with. No. 2? When I am with him I don't think could be happy without him, and when I think about No. 1 and how sweet he is to me, I think I love him best. So what am I gonna do? I love both, but each in a different way. Please, dear Mrs. Lee, answer me before it is too late. I'm EXHAUSTED."

I don't like to advise you to marry either when you can not decide for yourself which one you like best, but I can tell you in short order which would make the better husband, and that is, No. 1—absolutely. Heaven deliver any woman from the kind of man who has to be coaxed to be nice, with whom you are in terror, when you have invited company, that he will throw some kind of a temperamental fit or indulge in the sulks. And as to a tightwad, when a woman has to depend on a husband for every cent she spends, she has a hard enough time without having to coax it out of him like a beggar. If you can't marry No. 1, don't marry either, for you'll never know happiness with No. 2.

Peter's Adventures
BY MRS. FLORENCE SMITH VINCENT

A LADY IN LOVE

"Aaaa!" jeered a harsh voice. So near at hand and so unexpected was the sound in the quiet woods Peter had thought that he was quite alone—that he whirled about. There was no one standing near him, that was one thing sure—the boy even peered around the trunk of the tree to make certain. Very well, then, the speaker must be somewhere in the trees above his head.

Glancing up, Peter saw something yellow flash through the seared branches. Then it was gone but the mocking voice continued.

"Haw, haw, haw! How the others will laugh when I tell them. Every one in the family is scared to death of you Two-Legs, and you are coming, and yet I, with my very own eyes, have met a Two-Legs who is afraid of a Partridge."

"I am not afraid," declared Peter, indignantly. "Not one bit afraid."

"Then why don't you run over and meet M. Partridge, when Mother Partridge asks you?" asked the voice.

"That is none of your business," the boy was becoming angry, "and if you had any manners at all you would not ask such impertinent questions."

"Since you are so curious I may as well tell you that I do not like disagreeable folks, and from all that I have seen and been told about Papa Partridge he doesn't appear to have a pleasant disposition."

Besides, (and you may put the shoe on if it fits) I never force my attentions upon those who do not wish to have them."

"Aaaa!" Now it was you who were quite alone—that he whirled about. There was no one standing near him, that was one thing sure—the boy even peered around the trunk of the tree to make certain. Very well, then, the speaker must be somewhere in the trees above his head.

"I am a bird, and thank goodness I don't have to worry about 'putting on' a 'taking off.' My clothes grow on me, and I'll bet you never met a better dressed lady in all your life."

"I am beautiful and I know it—everybody tells me so, and even if they didn't it would not make any difference. I have a mirror and it never lies."

"Every morning when I am making my toilet I look into it and it says, 'Poll, Poll, pretty Poll, you are the most beautiful bird in the world. No other has feathers half so gorgeous. The blue of the sky is not more soft nor pretty than that on your back; the leaves of the maple not as gay as the green of your wings; the buttercup sighs in vain for yellow that is as bright as that on your throat; and your eye, it is as clear and sparkling as a dewdrop.'"

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

THE KING—Behold the days come, saith the Lord, that I will raise unto David a righteous Branch, and a King shall reign and prosper, and shall execute judgment and justice in the earth. 6 In his days Judah shall be saved, and Israel shall dwell safely: and this is his name whereby he shall be called THE LORD OUR RIGHTEOUSNESS.—Jeremiah 23: 5, 6.

SOME UNETHICAL PRACTICES

Much is heard and read of the ethics—or lack of them—of the butcher, the baker, grocer and clothing merchant. It is not uncommon for a dissatisfied customer to accuse the corner druggist of shrewd and selfish practices, or the dairyman of selling water.

But how about the ethics of the public itself? The question is put by a retail merchant writing in The Golden Book magazine.

"How about their ethics in demanding first-class and instant service and then taking their own sweet time to settle the bill?" he asks. "If the debtor is a representative citizen we can whistle for our money in vain, and that is about the size of it. If we ventured to remind one of these proud ones that his delinquency made him the recipient of our charity, we might as well close our doors at once."

"We are literally held up as a matter of course to supply goods and service gratis for every church fair, Daughters-of-Rachel sale, Sons-of-John supper, and street sweepers aid concert—and woe be unto us if we dare to present even a small bill."

"How about the ethics of adorning one's home with goods sent on approval and taken back after the party with the comment, 'they don't seem to be just what we want. Perhaps when you have a wider choice we may be able to decide on something.'"

LITTLE TO SCRAP ABOUT

The airplane and the airship have made many out of the way spots and waste places important to the nations owning them, and as the years unroll, isolated spots, and particularly isolated island peaks, are likely to become more and more valuable because of their strategic positions, if for no other reason.

Even so, it seems slightly ridiculous for Great Britain and Argentina to engage in a controversy over the ownership of the South Orkney islands because the government in Buenos Aires is maintaining wireless and meteorological stations on one of them, and the government in London has some vague claim to sovereignty, or thinks it has.

The South Orkneys are about due west from the South Shetland islands, which lie far below the tip of Patagonia within the ice pack region, and leaped into brief fame a few years ago because Sir Ernest Shackleton and his men took refuge on one of them after living for months on an ice flow. The South Orkneys are lonely rocks, known chiefly to adventurous whalers, and are so unimportant that even the Encyclopedia Britannica fails to notice them, although it recognizes the existence of islands on all sides of them. If any country can make any use of the points of land, that country certainly ought to be allowed the privileges of doing so without going through a lot of red tape adjustment with some other country that has no use for them and possesses only a technical title, at the most, and Argentina says that Great Britain doesn't possess even that.

Your BROADWAY And Mine

By Walter Winchell

NEW YORK—From this column in the Chicago Evening Post comes a clipping contributed to it by "Wally Wampus," who says, among other things: "With faint amusement, I have watched Ben (Effort Page) Hecht develop into Manhattan's official censor."

Then Mr. Wampus points out that Mr. Hecht has crushed Eugene O'Neill's dramas by calling them "intellectual shell games" and labeled Mr. Menckens "a literary circus barker" and "an intellectual Lord Fauntleroy." Wampus also reveals that Mr. Hecht tagged Heywood Brown "a drug store radical" and St. John Edvina "a cultural Brisbane multiplied by twelve." "...I have the temerity," concludes Wampus, "to point out a victim to Mr. Hecht. Surely, that demigod of the tea tables, Thornton Wilder, needs auditing, and wide-eyed Walter Winchell is begging for a nice little expose."

Wide-eyed? How EMBARRASSING! Lois Long ("Lipstick" in the New Yorker) recently holidayed at Palm Beach, Fla., where, one night, she frequented Bradley's, the oogle-goggle gaudy place, where they wear stiff shirts and are stiffer so on. Miss Long was suddenly faced with his coughs (hicups to you), so she urged a snooty waiter to bring a glass of water.

The waiter tilted his nose and said: "Water."

"Yes, Fevven's sake, hurry please!" hiccupped Miss Long. A few minutes later he coughed the tumbler of water. The appreciative young woman handed him a quarter for a tip, and then got a rough idea that she still was hot polio, for he handed her

THE SOUTH

Judged by the amount of income taxes paid in 1927-28 North Carolina is the third state in the union. That may astonish some people. It will not astonish those who know North Carolina and the south. New paved roads, fine office buildings in growing and prosperous cities, excellent newspapers that sell properly at five cents a copy, magnificent banks, lovely homes and fertile fields—say nothing of climate—are all characteristic of the new south. And fortunately the new south has not departed from the glories and the charm of the old. They have done a remarkable thing in the south. They have preserved mellowness in progress.

CHALLENGE TO DEMOCRACY

Let's not be short sighted enough to think, because the experiment of democracy is tried in America and some other places, that of necessity it is the best of all possible governments. In Russia they have Communism. In Italy they have Fascism. In various countries all over the earth, there are modifications of government. We believe we are on the right track. But let's keep our heads up, our eyes open, and look often toward and beyond the horizon.

WHO DOES THE THINKING?

Not long ago attention was called to the fact that there were but 350 names on the roll of the National Academy of Science. A late edition of American Men of Science contains about 10,000 names. The American Association for the Advancement of Science has about 12,000 members. It has been said there are not in this world of a billion and three-quarters people more than 100,000 persons whose efforts are responsible for the advancement of science. These are the people who are doing most of the creative thinking and creative work of the world. The rest of us stumble after.

EQUAL FREEDOM OF EDUCATIONAL OPPORTUNITY URGED

By DAVID KINLEY

President, University of Illinois. (David Kinley was born at Dundee, Scotland, Aug. 2, 1861. Coming to the United States with his father in 1872, he was graduated from Yale and later studied at Johns Hopkins and the University of Wisconsin. He was principal of a high school for six years at N. Andover, Mass., then taught at Johns Hopkins for a year; at Woman's college, Baltimore, and then the University of Wisconsin. He became professor of economics there in 1894 and was later dean of the graduate school for many years. Later becoming acting president at Wisconsin, for a year, he was chosen president of the University of Illinois in 1920. He has served as special envoy to Chile on a number of financial commissions, and has written several books on economic subjects.)

As a bar to class education and an aid to the policy of higher education for as large a number as possible, state supported universities stand as the bulwarks protecting the future of our democracy.

The public schools, the state supported colleges and universities of our country, were established in order to give equal freedom of educational opportunity to all. The main principle underlying their administration has been and is to keep an open road to the higher levels of education for as many as could walk that road.

Long ago they learned that genius and talent do not belong to any class based upon wealth, or social position. The only difference they recognize are the differences due to ability and to a desire to achieve.

Their purpose is not to educate as few as possible, but as many as possible.

Much has been written about electing leaders but we cannot select leaders in advance of their development of the powers of leadership.

We cannot pick the great business man of 20 years from now the young men of 19 and 20 in colleges although some profess to be able to do so. It has been said that some, if not most, of the successful business and professional men in our cities are drawn from the country.

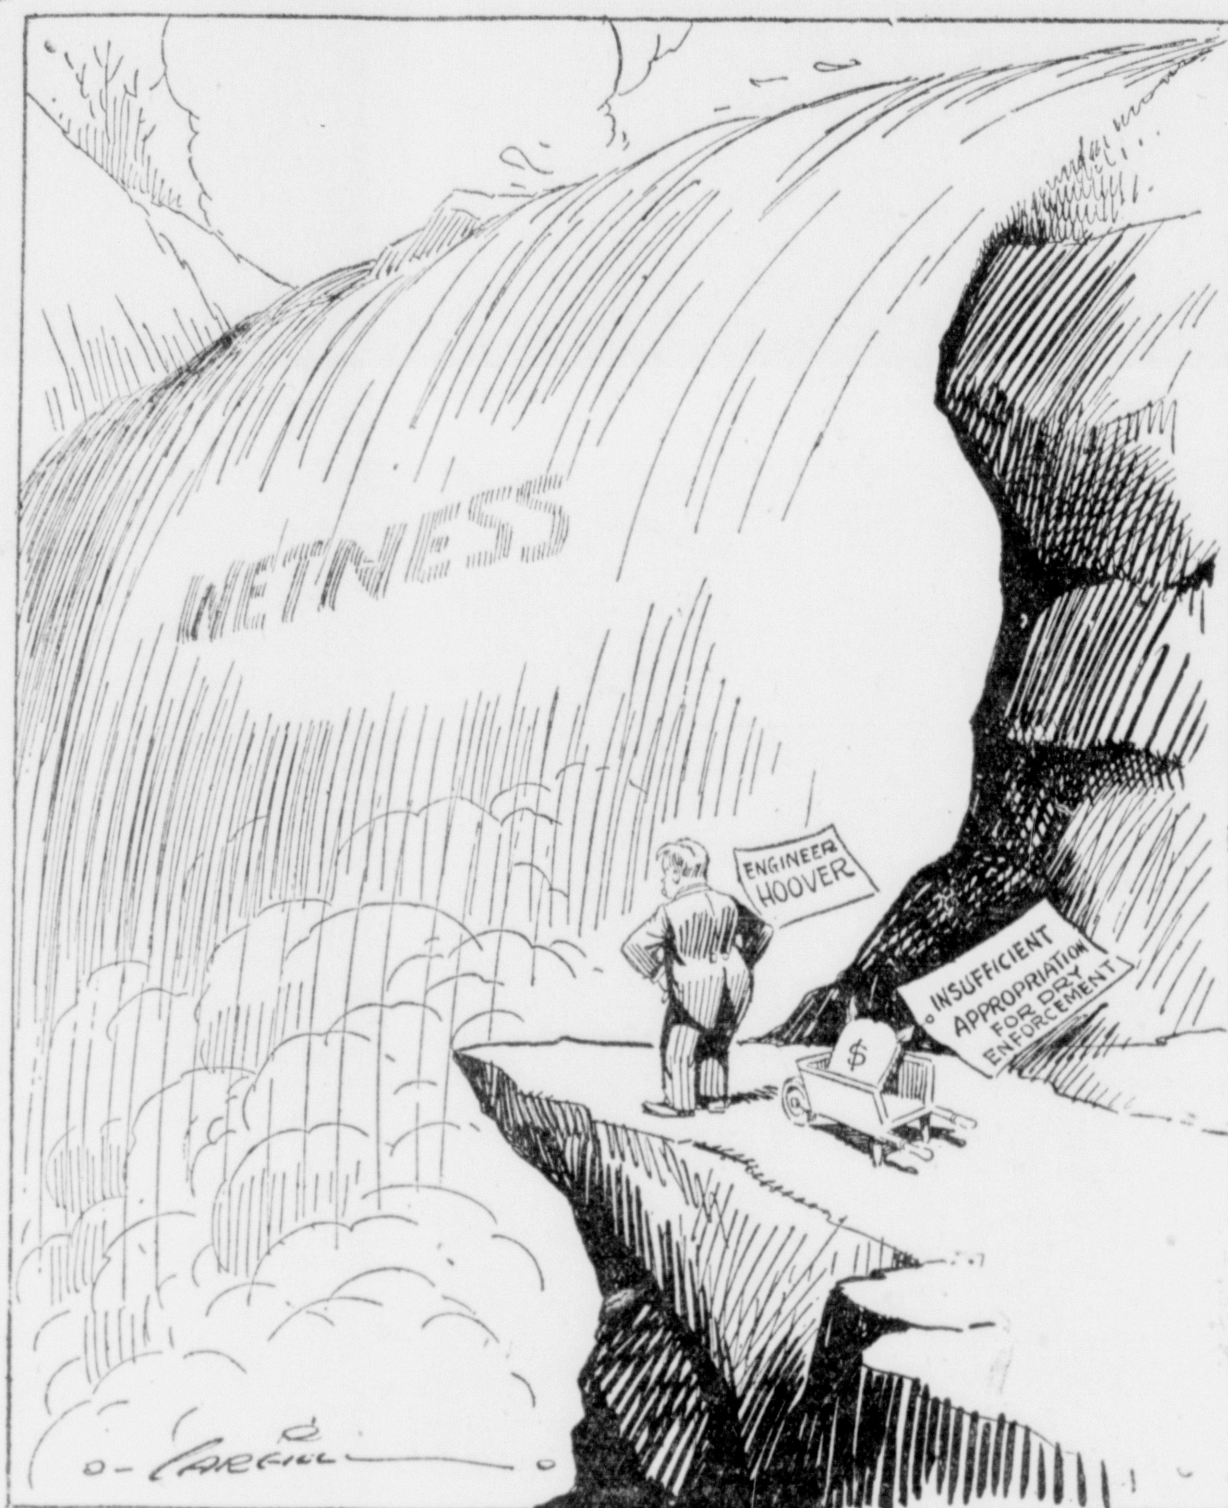

The great mass had equal opportunities, the attempt to avail themselves of these opportunities developed the leaders.

It is out of the great mass that leaders emerge, not by pre-selection but by strenuous effort to avail themselves of the opportunities for advancement, through education.

How to Achieve Beauty

BY MME. HELENA RUBINSTEIN

No matter how pretty your feet are, if you don't know how to use them they are not serving at full value to you as beauty accessories. Very few people, particularly people of middle age, know how to walk properly. Have you ever noticed how dragged down and deliberate the motions of walking become when one passes the active age of youth? Of course, it is not always actual foot positions which are to blame. Sometimes one needs to diet a bit, for careless eating results in deposits in the feet, which are the weakest organs of circulation. A simple diet can very often restore youth and "pep" to your walking.

To bathe the feet every night, first in hot and then cold water, will tone up the circulation and help to produce some of that "pep" and vitality which comes from properly-cared-for feet. The proper method of walking is very important. One needs a strong inner arch to keep up the onward pace of modern life. Learning to walk with the weight on the outer arch and by practicing heel and toe exercises, you can strengthen the important bones of the feet.

Awkward feet are very prevalent, and often one cannot blame them on circulation alone, for a great many of us, through just carelessness or bad habits, do all the things with our feet we should not do, and fall utterly to do the things we should.

Have you ever looked at people's feet in a car or train? You will find yourself wondering why so many of them are so awkward. You think it would be very simple for one to learn the technique of graceful foot positions, and yet evidently it is not simple at all, for the majority of people seem to fall naturally into unlovely positions.

In these frank days of short skirts, one must pay close attention to the details of posture, and not the least of these is the way you hold your feet. It is ugly to see women with their feet sprawled all over, sometimes with their toes in, sometimes with their knees far apart. In fact, there must be dozens of awkward and angular combinations which otherwise lovely women subscribe to.

There is really one correct position for your feet to take when you are seated. They should be flat on the floor, very slightly turned out at the toe, and repositioned straight before you.

Behind the Scenes in Washington

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON.—"Indirect protection" is the latest wrinkle in tariff-making.

There are some things we do not—cannot—produce in America.

For instance, bananas are too tropical for our climate. Does it follow that we may as well let them in free?—Inasmuch as they cannot possibly compete with our domestic bananas—because we have none.

By no means. Our apple-growers want a hun-dinger of an import tax slapped on bananas, in order to make them prohibitively expensive.

The theory is that no bananas will drive us to eat more apples.

The field of this principle's applicability is almost limitless.

We bring hardly anything into the country for which our own producers could not conjure up some sort of a substitute. We may not like the substitute as well as we liked the original article—but look what it will do for home industry!

The idea is what promises to be the basis of our new tariff for agricultural relief.

Our protectionistic folk have insisted all along that the thing our farmers need is a good, high tariff wall to keep foreign crops from coming into the United States and underselling our local crops.

The farmers fell for this for a long time.

Finally, they began to see the flaw in the argument.

Generally speaking, America does not import farm products. Our farmers raise, right here at home, more than this country has been able to consume, and have to export the balance. Protection is no help to an exporter—on the contrary—it handicaps him.

That is to say, it handicaps a large exporter. It may not be true of an industry which sells the vast bulk of its output in home markets and only dumps a small surplus abroad, to avoid the expense of an occasional shutdown.

It certainly has been true of America's farmers. As soon as this great light had dawned on our agricultural lawmakers, they set to work and evolved the original McNary-Haugen bill. Without entering into a big voluminous explanation, suffice it to say that the bill's purpose was to put the protection principle in reverse, in the hope of benefiting our farmer-exporters.

How it would have worked, heaven knows.

At any rate, orthodox protectionists balked at it, declaring it "uneconomic." Among others, Herbert Hoover said so emphatically. He and his platform promised farm relief, but minus the McNary-Haugen stinger—the extraction of which Senator McNary agreed to, but never, so far as I ever heard, Representative Haugen.

However, the G. O. P. did pledge the farmers all the extra old-fashioned protection they want—not including the extracted stinger.

I admit I wondered how the farmers were going to get any nourishment out of this compact with the stinger eliminated. I can see now, after watching the house of representatives ways and means committee, at work on the new tariff bill.

The farmers mean to do it through "indirect protection." They intend to expand that apple-banana idea on into infinity. With the kindest feelings in the world toward agriculture, I begin to feel sick of apples already.

Diet and Health

The Daily Foundation Diet.

F.—If you are more nervous while dieting to reduce, it may indicate that you are not dieting intelligently. Usually one feels better in every way while on a reducing diet.

Do you get the foundation diet in reducing? I'll run this again, for it is a good foundation for the diet of everyone, reducing or not.

FIRST: At least a half pound of some watery vegetables (the green leaf vegetables are especially good)—lettuce, spinach, celery, asparagus, watercress, beet top greens, cabbage, tomatoes, etc. A half pound of these, cooked or uncooked, without fat, approximately 50 C.

SECOND: A half pound of other vegetables—carrots, beets, onions, parsnips and squash—approximately 100 C., without fat.

THIRD: 200 to 300 calories of fruit. Good-sized orange, apple, pear—100 C. each. Best to take large share of the vegetables and fruits raw.

FOURTH: At least one pint of skim or buttermilk in some form—drinks, in cooking, or cheese. You need it for lime and complete protein.

FIFTH: One medium small potato, 100 C., OR one large slice whole wheat bread, one-half inch thick, same number of calories. OR two-thirds cup of cereal. If you have starchy or sugary desserts, omit these.

SIXTH: One to two teaspoons cod liver oil (35 calories each), or two to four cod liver oil tablets (practically no calories), or one tablespoonful of butter (100 C.), or equivalent in cream—for your supply of vitamin A.

SEVENTH: Protein. You must have more protein, besides what you get in the milk, so take three to four ounces of very lean meat or fish or eggs (150 to 200 C. total).

What I have outlined comes approximately to 800-1,000 C. That will leave you quite a few more calories for the things you like. But I advise you not to take sweets and fats, because it is best to learn not to care for them. Arrange your meals and means to suit yourself. Have you our pamphlet of instructions on how to gain and lose weight? See column rules.

P.—Yes, you can eat oranges and drink milk at the same meal. Orange juice makes milk more easily digested.

BRING IN THE VICE-PRESIDENTS

Times had reached a troublesome pass at the First National Bank of Miners, Merchants and Moons, and a meeting of the directors had been called.

"We've got to have a reorganization at once," the chairman announced.

"Why? What's the trouble?" a mere director asked.

"We've just discovered that we have three more depositors than we have vice presidents."

Living and Loving

BY MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

One admires the good person, we may even sympathize over him in private, but how often, oh how often, do we LOVE the graceless scamp that does all the things he ought not to do and cheerfully leaves undone all the things he ought to do.

Personally I say it with shame. I have always secretly sympathized with the good brother of the prodigal son. I think it was pretty hard to go on working and slaving and suppressing his desire to rove, and then have such a fuss made over the prodigal when he got to the end of his rope and came home for help. I realize that it shows what a nasty disposition I have, but I'm going to be brave and acknowledge that that is how I've always felt about it. I know that I'd have done just as he did when he groused about that fatted calf business to his father.

A young girl asks me to decide which of two lovers she should marry and here is her letter. "DEAR VIRGINIA LEE: You have helped others and I am sure you can help me. I need advice and need it quick. I love two boys, both of the same age. Now I have to choose which ONE I will be."

"No. 1 is kind and considerate, always willing to do his part. Not a spendthrift, but not a tightwad, either. Seems to love me in a kind and tender way and has always acted the gentleman in my presence. Also, he is a member of my church."

"No. 2 is not so thoughtful of anyone except himself. I have to pet him up to keep him in a good humor. Also he is the kind that hates to turn a nickel loose. But he is just the kind that you can't resist, and I am always happy when I am with him. He is not a member of any church."

"Now, Mrs. Lee, which would make a better husband? I think I know which one you will say, but do you believe I could be happy with No. 2? When I am with him I don't think could be happy without him, and when I think about No. 1 and how sweet he is to me, I think I love him most. So what am I gonna do? I love both, but each in a different way. Please, dear Mrs. Lee, answer me before it is too late."

"JENAN."

I don't like to advise you to marry either when you can not decide for yourself which one you like best, but I can tell you in short order which would make the better husband, and that is, No. 1—absolutely. Heaven deliver any woman from the kind of man who has to be coaxed to be nice, with whom you are in terror, when you have invited company, that he will throw some kind of a temperamental fit or indulge in the sulks. And as to a tightwad, when a woman has to depend on a husband for every cent she spends, she has a hard enough time without having to coax it out of him like a beggar. If you can't marry No. 1, don't marry either, for you'll never know happiness with No. 2.

Peter's Adventures

BY MRS. LORENCE SMITH VINCENT

A LADY IN LOVE WITH HERSELF

"Aaar!" jeered a harsh voice. So near at hand and so unexpected was the sound in the quiet woods—Peter had thought that he was quite alone—that he whirled about. There was no one standing near him, that was one thing sure—the boy even peered around the trunk of the tree to make certain. Very well, then, the speaker must be somewhere in the trees above his head.

Glancing up, Peter saw something yellow flash through the scared branches. Then it was gone but the mocking voice continued.

"Haw, haw, haw! How the others will laugh when I tell them. Every one in the family is scared to death of a Two-Legs, and flies in circles every time it sees one coming, and yet I, with my very own eyes, have met a Two-Legs who is afraid of a Partridge."

"I am not afraid," declared Peter, indignantly. "Not one bit afraid."

"Then why don't you run over and meet Mr. Partridge when Mother Partridge asks you to?" asked the voice.

"That is none of your business," the boy was becoming angry, "and if you had any manners at all you would not ask such impertinent questions."

"Since you are so curious I will tell you that I do not like disagreeable folks, and from all that I have seen and been told about Papa Partridge he doesn't appear to have a pleasant disposition. Besides, (and you may put the shoe on if it fits) I never force my attentions upon those who do not wish to have them."

"Aaar! Now it is you who are rude. You mean that you do not want to know me, that you wish I would go away and mind my business," mocked the unseen speaker.

"Well, I will not. These are my woods, I have lived here ever since I was hatched, and it is you who are out of place. Putting the shoe on if it fits, indeed. Did any one ever hear of anything so ridiculous?"

"I am a bird, and thank goodness I don't have to worry about finding out or taking off! My clothes grow on me, and I'll bet you never met a better dressed lady in all your life."

"I am beautiful and I know it—everybody tells me so, and even if they didn't it would not make any difference. I have a mirror and it never lies."

"Every morning when I am making my toilet I look into it and it says, 'Poll, Poll, pretty Poll, you are the most beautiful bird in the world. No other has feathers half so gorgeous. The blue of the sky is not more soft nor prettier than that on your back; the leaves of the maple not as gay as the green of your wings; the buttercup sighs in vain for yellow that is as bright as that on your throat; and your eyes are as clear and sparkling as a dewdrop.'"

SPORT SHOTS

Excuse it for resharpening an old saw, but Xenia Central's "Buccaneer basketballers" discovered Friday night the wisdom of the old saying, to-wit: "Don't count your chickens before they are hatched," or rather before the proper system of incubation has set in.

Expecting an easy victory, the Buccaneers barely escaped with a one-point victory over Greenville. It was a case of over-confidence or simply staleness. Greenville, however, according to Coach "Pinky" Wilson, was underrated and appeared to possess a far better team than its fondest admirers gave it credit for.

Let bygones be bygones, however, as Xenia's Miami Valley League record is still pure as a ray of sunshine and a reversal of form is to be expected in the final league championship game with Piqua Thursday night at Piqua.

Piqua has developed a style of play similar to Xenia, if reports are reliable. There is no aimless running around the floor but a cool, methodical offense, waiting patiently for openings. The Xenia-Piqua battle royal should develop into an all-right defensive exhibition by both teams.

Defensively, Piqua has shown the best form in the league, holding opponents to a total of fifty-eight points in four games. Opponents of Xenia in a like number of games have scored sixty-one points.

Offensively, the Bucs have been slightly superior, scoring 126 points to 108 for Piqua in the same number of games against the same opponents.

Springfield High School, Xenia's opponent in the final home game of the season here Tuesday night, has won one game since the season began. The Wildcats started off in the right manner by defeating Cedarville High by the queer score of 11 to 1. Since that game Springfield's record is barren of victories.

Officiating at Buckeye Association games is a tough assignment. With almost half the games being won by one or two points, the work of officials has become a deciding factor to an unusual extent. A single blast from the referee's whistle has determined the victor in more than one Buckeye court battle this season. Such a situation puts real responsibility upon officials, and lets them in for more than the usual amount of criticism from frenzied fans.

CEDARVILLE BEATS BLISS OF COLUMBUS IN RETURN CONTEST

Borst's Boys Show Reversal Of Form; Third Victory

Cedarville College's rejuvenated basketball team took a new lease on life by trouncing Bliss Business College cagers at Columbus Saturday night in a return game by a margin of 32 to 23.

The victory was the third straight for the "Yellow-Jackets" and the fourth win in their last five starts. In seventeen games played to date Cedarville has won six games and lost eleven, having met practically every college team in the state that has aspired to statewide recognition in basketball this season.

Cedarville's triumph avenged a 41 to 22 setback sustained at the hands of Bliss cagers a few weeks ago.

Although three members of its team were playing their first game of the season, as regulars, the Bliss quintet refused to concede defeat and fought hard up to the final whistle.

At the half the score stood at 18 to 16 in favor of Cedarville. Allen, forward for Cedarville, was the individual star of the game, counting fourteen points. Turner followed with seven. Florio registered eleven points for Bliss while Hock and Glassman also played good games.

Wilmington College is scheduled to appear at Cedarville Tuesday night for a return game. Wilmington won the previous encounter, 37 to 24. Lineups and summary:

EAST HIGH CAGERS LOSE CLOSE FRAGAS

East High School cagers dropped a close basketball tilt to the Dayton Hi Y quintet by a score of 25 to 23 on the latter's court Friday night. Dayton led 16 to 8 at the half but East High made a desperate stand in the last half and managed to tie the score at 22 to 22 with four minutes left to play. When Dayton won out.

East High gymnasium will be the scene of a benefit basketball game Tuesday night between Joe Anderson's Big Five and the Alpha Phi Alpha fraternity team of Wilberforce University.

McKinley 6 B Wins Grade League Title

BEATS SPRING HILL SATURDAY IN FINAL SCHOOL LOOP GAME

Larger Team Easily Overwhelms Foe By 25-5 Score

McKinley 6B won the 1929 championship of the second annual Intra-City Grade School Basketball League by easily defeating Spring Hill fifth graders, 25 to 5 in the finals Saturday night at Central High gymnasium.

Spring Hill was far outclassed by its larger and more experienced opponents. McKinley led at the half by a 9 to 3 margin and was never in danger of defeat.

McDufford proved the main cog in the McKinley scoring machine, registering fifteen points. Batson contributed six and Dudley played a good defensive game. Huston sparked for Spring Hill, counting all of his team's points besides playing an excellent floor game.

A silver loving cup was presented to the champion team immediately following the game by City School Superintendent Louis Hamner. The cup is contested for annually and was won last year by Spring Hill sixth grade. It was received on behalf of McKinley by James Batson, captain of the team.

The league was conducted under the direction of Glen Patterson, Central Junior High coach, who desires to express his appreciation to all persons who contributed their time and efforts toward making the event successful.

These school principals and teachers took an active part in the league affairs: Mrs. Lois Van Zant, principal and Miss Pauline Gordon, of Spring Hill; Miss Edna Bloom, principal, Miss Hazel Schwab and Miss Jane Hayward, of McKinley.

Coach Patterson also had a staff of high school boys helping him, including Birch Bell, Robert Buell and William Jones. Elwood Shaffer was in charge of publicity for the league and others who helped out were Mrs. Louis Hammerle, Robert Randall and Clinton Adair. Lineups and summary of the final league game:

JUNIOR HIGH TEAM LOSES AFTER TWO OVERTIME PERIODS

Basket And Foul Beats Locals In Final Minutes

Central Junior High School's basketball quintet carried McClain High Juniors of Greenfield to two overtime periods before bowing to the visiting team, 17 to 14 in a furiously fought court struggle at Central gym Saturday night.

Central Juniors led 5 to 4 at the half and at the end of the third quarter the score was tied at 10 all. In the fourth period D. Smith put McClain in the lead with a close-in shot, but with less than a minute to play, Muterspaw, local center, again knotted the count when he sank a short shot.

During the first overtime period, Central Juniors were weakened by the removal of Muterspaw from the pastime on personal fouls, and Smith replaced Creamer at forward. Teegarden hit the net from mid-floor for McClain but a pretty basket by Ralls just before the gun cracked again put the teams in a deadlock.

In the final extra period Greenfield started a determined drive for victory which ended successfully on a free throw by Smith and a fielder by Howland.

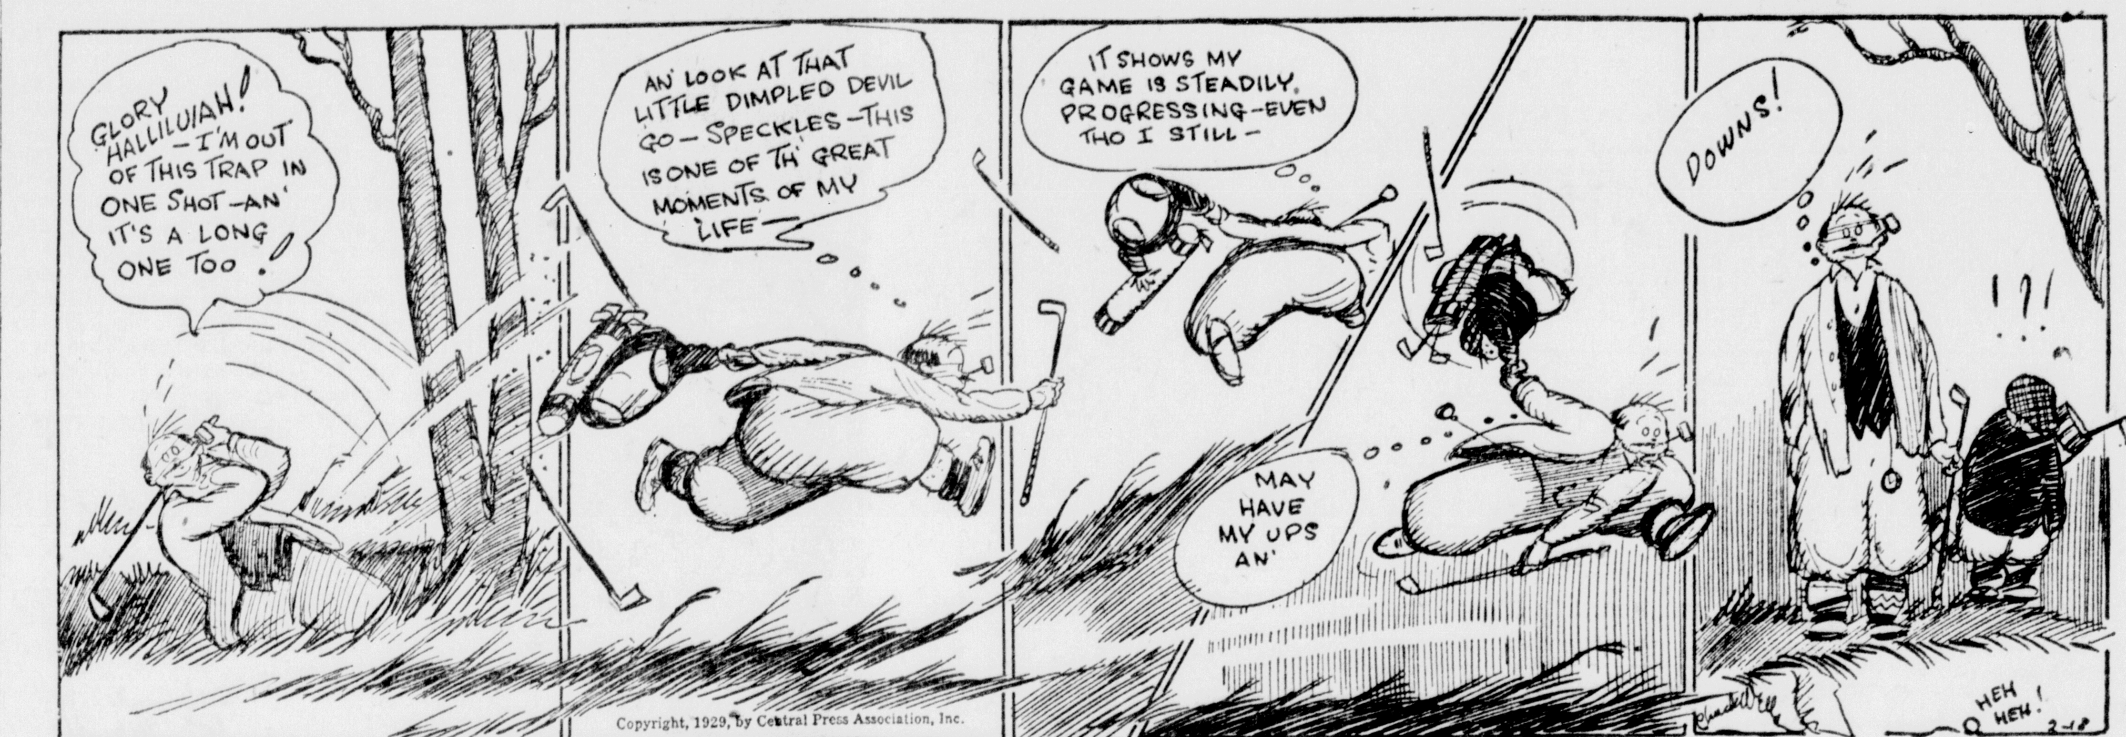

Central Juniors appeared stale and played a listless game from the outset, fumbling passes and missing innumerable easy shots at the basket. Their defense was loose and the team was apparently tuckered out from the hard game the previous evening with New Antioch.

McClain, with a much larger team, employed a slow, deliberate offense, frequently penetrating the local defense for tries at the basket and converting most of its opportunities into points.

The game was played as a preliminary to the finals in the grade school league. Central Juniors will meet Bryan High School Juniors of Yellow Springs in a preliminary to the Xenia-Springfield game here Tuesday night. Lineups follow:

Xenia (14) H. Smith (c) Creamer f. Teegarden c. A'chison lg. Handley rg. D. Smith rf. Substitutions: Xenia—Smith for Creamer; Hyman for Ralls. Greenfield—Howland for Handley. Referee—Fred Smith. Umpire—Howell.

THE MEADOWLARKS—"Out Again—In Again"

CHAMPIONS PLACE THREE ON ALL-STAR GRADE LEAGUE TEAM

McKinley 6B, which won the 1929 championship of the Intra-City Grade School Basketball League at Central High gymnasium Saturday night, places three members of its team on the all-city team selected by a committee headed by Elwood Shaffer, sports writer of the loop.

Players of McKinley 6A and Spring Hill fifth grade round out the make-up of the all-star quintet. Each member of this mythical team was awarded a pencil. The all-city team selections were announced immediately following the final game.

Recognition in the form of shields denoting the fact they won the 1929 championship of their respective grades, came to the Spring Hill fourth and fifth grade teams.

HENDRICKS HOPES TO FIND SOME HITTERS AMONG RED RECRUITS

NEW YORK, Feb. 18.—Eight days from today Jack Hendricks, the corpulent, gray-haired manager of the Cincinnati Reds who resembles a lawyer off the diamond, will start his search among the Reds' seventeen recruits for hard hitting youngsters.

For the Reds need a punch and they need it badly if they are to figure in the 1929 National League pennant race. Although the Reds as a team batted only one point less than the Cardinals last season, they failed to come through with doubles, triples and home runs in the pinches.

Out of a squad of thirty-eight ordered to report at Orlando, Fla., February 26, seventeen are newcomers.

Three of the Reds' best looking newcomers are outfielders. It may happen that Hendricks will pick up a couple of regular outfielders as Pat Moran did before Cincinnati won the pennant in 1919.

Estel Crabtree, who batted .353 for Oklahoma City, and Ernest Swanson, who batted .346 for the Mission Pacific Coast League club, look like a pair of players the Reds have been waiting for. Swanson's fifty-five triples and stole forty-nine bases last season. Walker Sherr, who had a tryout with the Red Sox and batted .330 for Chattanooga, and Jack Hill, University of California star, are the other two outfield additions.

Ethan Allen, Marty Callaghan, Everett Purdy, Curtis Walker and Bill Zimman, will be back again in the outfield for Cincinnati.

Changes are contemplated at first and third base in the infield. Victor Sherr, who batted .365 for McCook, Neb., will battle with George Kelly and Wally Pipp for first base. Rube Lutzke, formerly with the Cleveland Indians who batted .305 for Newark last season, will compete with Joe Stripp, who came from Columbus last season, and Charley Drennon for third base.

Hughie Critz and Horace Ford, who set a world record for double plays last season, will form the second base combination. The other infielders are Clark Pittenger and Luke Johnson, a Northwestern University product.

There are no exceptional prospects among the new pitchers. Paul Zahriser, who formerly played with the Senators and Red Sox, is coming back from Columbus for another major league trial. Kenneth Ash, who was recalled late last season from Columbus after he had won twelve games and won ten, may get a regular berth.

The other new pitchers are Joe Smith from North Platte; Harlan Pyle from McCook, Neb.; Ray Meeker from Columbus; Bill McCoy, a semi-pro; S'las Johnson from Rock Island; Ray Hamilton from Hialeah University; and Marvin Groat from Dayton. O. Meeker and Gudat are southpaws. Don-

Bowling

The Downtown Country Club bowling team is still leading the City League by a margin of three full games over Fuller Brothers, who took two out of three from the league-leaders in a match last week.

In the double-header to be played Friday night, the D. C. Club will meet Hunt's Broom Makers, and Fuller Bros. will oppose The Brown Furniture Co. League standing follows:

FRAMED BY PHIL

Excuse it for resharpening an old saw, but Xenia Central's "Buccaneer" basketball team discovered Friday night the wisdom of the old saying, to-wit: "Don't count your chickens before they are hatched," or rather before the proper system of incubation has set in.

Expecting an easy victory, the Buccaneers barely escaped with a one-point victory over Greenville. It was a case of over-confidence or simply staleness. Greenville, however, according to Coach "Pinky" Wilson, was underrated and appeared to possess a far better team than its fondest admirers gave it credit for.

Let bygones be bygones, however, as Xenia's Miami Valley League record is still pure as a ray of sunshine and a reversal of form is to be expected in the final league championship game with Piqua Thursday night at Piqua.

Piqua has developed a style of play similar to Xenia. It reports a reliable. There is no aimless running around the floor but a cool, methodical offensive, waiting for an opening. The Xenia-Piqua battle royal should develop into an airtight defensive exhibition by both teams.

Defensively, Piqua has shown the best form in the league, holding opponents to a total of fifty-eight points in four games. Opponents of Xenia in a like number of games have scored sixty-one points.

Offensively, the Bucs have been slightly superior, scoring 126 points to 108 for Piqua in the same number of games against the same opponents.

Springfield High School, Xenia's opponent in the final home game of the season here Tuesday night, has won one game since the season began. The Wildcats started off in the right manner by defeating Cedarville High by the queer score of 11 to 1. Since that game Springfield's record is barren of victories.

Officiating at Buckeye Association games is a tough assignment. With almost half the games being won by one or two points, the work of officials has become a deciding factor to an unusual extent. A single blast from the referee's whistle has determined the victor in more than one Buckeye court case this season. Such a situation puts real responsibility upon officials, and lets them in for more than the usual amount of criticism from frenzied fans.

CEDARVILLE BEATS BLISS OF COLUMBUS IN RETURN CONTEST

Borst's Boys Show Reversal Of Form; Third Victory

Cedarville College's rejuvenated basketball team took a new lease on life by trouncing Bliss Business College cagers at Columbus Saturday night in a return game by a margin of 33 to 28.

The victory was the third straight for the "Yellow-Jackets" and the fourth win in their last five starts. In seventeen games played to date Cedarville has won six games and lost eleven, having met practically every college team in the state that has aspired to state-wide recognition in basketball this season.

Cedarville's triumph avenged a 41 to 22 setback sustained at the hands of Bliss cagers a few weeks ago.

Although three members of its team were playing their first game of the season, as regulars, the Bliss quintet refused to concede defeat and fought hard up to the final whistle.

At the half the score stood at 18 to 16 in favor of Cedarville. Allen, forward for Cedarville, was the individual star of the game, counting fourteen points. Turner followed with seven. Florio registered eleven points for Bliss while Hock and Glassman also played good games.

Wilmington College is scheduled to appear at Cedarville Tuesday night for a return game. Wilmington won the previous encounter, 37 to 24. Lineups and summaries:

EAST HIGH CAGERS LOSE CLOSE FRACAS

East High School cagers dropped a close basketball tilt to the Dayton Hi Y quintet by a score of 25 to 23 on the latter's court Friday night. Dayton led 16 to 8 at the half but East High made a desperate stand in the last half and managed to tie the score at 22 to 22 with four minutes left to play. Then Dayton won out.

East High gymnasium will be the scene of a benefit basketball game Tuesday night between Joe Anderson's Big Five and the Alpha Phi Alpha fraternity team of Wilmington University.

BEATS SPRING HILL SATURDAY IN FINAL SCHOOL LOOP GAME

Larger Team Easily Overwhelms Foe By 25-5 Score

McKinley 6B won the 1929 championship of the second annual Intra-City Grade School Basketball League by easily defeating Spring Hill fifth graders, 25 to 5 in the final Saturday night at Central High gymnasium.

Spring Hill was far outclassed by its larger and more experienced opponents. McKinley led at the half by a 9 to 3 margin and was never in danger of defeat.

McDufford proved the main cog in the McKinley scoring machine, registering fifteen points. Batson contributed six and Dudley played a good defensive game. Huston sparked for Spring Hill, counting all of his team's points besides playing an excellent floor game.

A silver loving cup was presented to the champion team immediately following the game by City School Superintendent Louis Ham-nick. The cup is contested for annually and was won last year by Spring Hill sixth grade. It was received on behalf of McKinley by James Batson, captain of the team.

The league was conducted under the direction of Glen Patterson, Central Junior High coach, who desires to express his appreciation to all persons who contributed to their time and efforts toward making the event successful.

These school principals and teachers took an active part in the league affairs: Mrs. Lois Van Zant, principal and Miss Pauline Gordon, of Spring Hill; Miss Edna Bloom, principal, Miss Hazel Schwab and Miss Jane Hayward, of McKinley.

Coch Patterson also had a staff of high school boys helping him, including Birch Bell, Robert Buell and William Jones. Elwood Shaffer was in charge of publicity for the league and others who helped out were Mrs. Louis Hammerle, Robert Randall and Clifton Adair. Lineups and summary of the final league game:

JUNIOR HIGH TEAM LOSES AFTER TWO OVERTIME PERIODS

Basket And Foul Beats Locals In Final Minutes

Central Junior High School's basketball quintet carried McClain High Juniors of Greenville to two overtime periods before bowing to the visiting team, 17 to 14 in a furiously fought court struggle at Central gym Saturday night.

Central Juniors led 5 to 4 at the half and at the end of the third quarter the score was tied at 10 all. In the fourth period D. Smith put McClain in the lead with a close-in shot, but with less than a minute to play, Muterspaw, local center, again knotted the count when he sank a short shot.

During the first overtime period, Central Juniors were weakened by the removal of Muterspaw from the pastime on personal fouls, and Smith replaced Creamer at forward. Teegarden hit the net from mid-floor for McClain but a pretty basket by Ralls just before the gun cracked again put the teams in a deadlock.

In the final extra period Greenville started a determined drive for victory which ended successfully on a free throw by Smith and a fielder by Howard.

Central Juniors appeared stale and played a listless game from the outset, fumbling passes and missing innumerable easy shots at the basket. Their defense was loose and the team was apparently tucked out from the hard game the previous evening with New Antioch.

McClain, with a much larger team, employed a slow, deliberate offensive, frequently penetrating the local defense for tries at the basket and converting most of its opportunities into points.

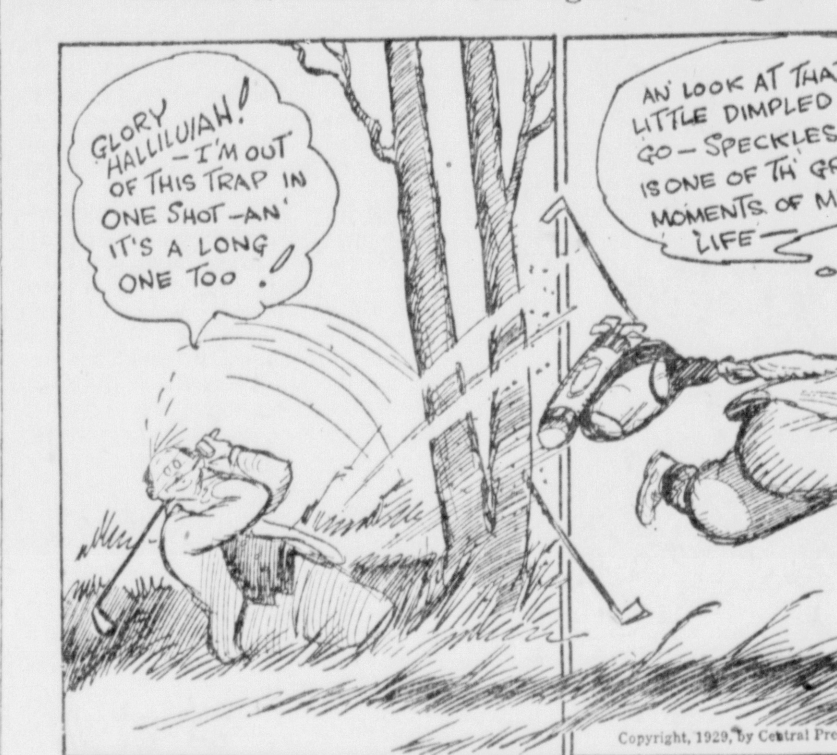

The game was played as a preliminary to the finals in the grade school league. Central Juniors will meet Bryan High School Juniors of Yellow Springs in a preliminary to the Xenia-Springfield game here Tuesday night. Lineups follow:

Substitutions: Xenia—Smith for Creamer; Hyman for Ralls. Greenville—Howard for Handley. Referee—Fred Smith. Umpire—Howell Huston.

THE MEADOWLARKS—"Out Again—In Again"

CHAMPIONS PLACE THREE ON ALL-STAR GRADE LEAGUE TEAM

McKinley 6B, which won the 1929 championship of the Intra-City Grade School Basketball League at Central High gymnasium Saturday night, places three members of its team on the all-city team selected by a committee headed by Elwood Shaffer, sports writer of the loop.

Players of McKinley 6A and Spring Hill fifth grade round out the make-up of the all-star quintet. Each member of this mythical team was awarded a pencil. The all-city team selections were announced immediately following the final game.

Recognition in the form of shields denoting the fact they won the 1929 championship of their respective grades, came to the Spring Hill fourth and fifth grade teams.

These players received honorable mention: Philip Stiles, Wayne Flory and Frank Randall of McKinley, and Kent Muterspaw, Charles Weingart, Paul Leach and Robert Bath of Spring Hill.

HENDRICKS HOPES TO FIND SOME HITTERS AMONG RED RECRUITS

NEW YORK, Feb. 18.—Eight days from today Jack Hendricks, the corpulent, gray-haired manager of the Cincinnati Reds who resembles a lawyer off the diamond, will start his search among the Reds' seventeen recruits for hard hitting youngsters.

For the Reds need a punch and they need it badly if they are to figure in the 1929 National League pennant race. Although the Reds as a team batted only one point less than the Cardinals last season, they failed to come through with doubles, triples and home runs in the pinches.

Out of a squad of thirty-eight ordered to report at Orlando, Fla., February 26, seventeen are newcomers.

Three of the Reds' best looking newcomers are outfielders. It may happen that Hendricks will pick up a couple of regular outfielders as Pat Moran did before Cincinnati won the pennant in 1919.

Estel Crabtree, who batted .353 for Oklahoma City, and Ernest Swanson, who batted .346 for the Mission Pacific Coast League club, look like a pair of players the Reds have been waiting for. Swanson has fifty-three doubles and stole forty-nine bases last season. Walter Shaner, who had a .407 with the Red Sox and batted .330 for Chattanooga, and Jack Hill, University of California star, are the other two outfield additions.

Ethan Allen, Marty Callaghan, Everett Purdy, Curtis Walker and Bill Z'emann, will be back again in the outfield for Cincinnati.

Changes are contemplated at first and third base in the infield. Victor Shiell, who batted .265 for McCook, Neb., will battle with George Kelly and Wally Pipp for first base. Rube Lu'zke, formerly with the Cleveland Indians who batted .205 for Newark last season, will compete with Joe Stripp, who came from Columbus last season, and Charley Dresen for third base.

Hughie Critz and Horace Ford, who set a world record for double plays last season, will form the second base combination. The other infielders are Clark Pittenger and Luke Johnson, a Northwestern University product.

There are no exceptional prospects among the new pitchers. Paul Zahriser, who formerly played with the Senators and Red Sox, is coming back from Columbus for another major league trial. Kenneth Ash, who was recalled late last season from Columbus after he had won twelve games and won ten may get a regular berth.

The other new pitchers are Joe Smith from North Platte; Harlan Pyle from McCook, Neb.; Ray Meeker from Columbus; Bill McCoy, a sent-up; S'las Johnson from Rock Island; Ray Harrington from Illinois University; and Marvin Gustaf from Dayton, O. Master and Gudat are southerners. Don-

Bowling

The Downtown Country Club bowling team is still leading the City League by a margin of three full games over Fuller Brothers, who took two out of three from the league-leaders in a match last week.

In the double-header to be played Friday night, the D. T. C. Club will meet Hunt's Broom Makers, and Fuller Bros. will oppose The Brown Furniture Co. League standing follows:

Team. Won. Lost. Pct.
D. T. C. Club 37 26 .587
Fuller Bros. 34 29 .539
Browns 30 33 .476
Broom Makers 25 38 .396

LINDBERGH'S LOVE-MAKING TACTICS QUIET ACCORDING TO FIANCEE'S AUNT

By BONITA WITT

CLEVELAND, O., Feb. 18.—When America's hero, Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, goes swooning he does it in the same quiet manner that characterized his transatlantic flight and his subsequent aerial jaunts about the continent.

So says Miss Annie Spencer Cutler, of Cleveland, a sister of Mrs. Morrow, an aunt of his fiancée, Miss Anne Morrow. She recalls her visit to the embassy at Mexico City last November when Lindbergh also was a guest of the Morrows.

"Although we all knew the Lindberghs were a very sensitive pair, I never saw a bit of love-making between them during their entire time together. Their composure and dignity was wonderful."

Persons connected with the embassy were as surprised as the rest of the world to learn of the coming wedding.

Miss Cutler smilingly tells of the cleverness of the young couple in eluding reporters at the Morrow home in Englewood, N. J. "It has been so difficult for them to be together," she explains, "they managed to slip away for automobile rides now and then, and they frequently flew together. Of course people at Englewood were very suspicious, but Anne and Colonel Lindbergh always managed to keep their love pretty much of a secret."

"I cannot think of anyone who detests publicity more than Anne. She has always been a very sensitive girl and she shrinks from it. She always has been interested in books, and took highest honors at Smith College for creative work, both in poetry and prose."

Colonel Lindbergh's fondness for the out-of-doors is shared by his fiancée. According to Miss Cutler, she played an exceptional game of hockey while attending Miss Chapin's school in New York, and each morning she rises early and goes for a two-hour run. She is said to ride remarkably well and gracefully. Since Lindbergh also is fond of horses the pair probably will be familiar figures on the bridge paths after their marriage.

Photos at the home of Miss Cutler and her 80-year-old mother, Mrs. Charles Cutler, whom Lindbergh took for a flight, during her visit to the embassy, shows Miss Morrow to be a very attractive young woman with a rather spiritual type of beauty.

Of the meeting of the flyer and his future bride, Miss Cutler says: "They first met at a Christmas party at the embassy where Colonel Lindbergh was guest of honor at a large gathering. There was a great deal of excitement and many young women were present. He was showered with attentions from feminine guests, but it was quiet, retiring Anne who won him. She always has been sought after although she never has done a thing to court popularity or retain it."

"They are a handsome couple, he so very fair and she is quite dark. It has been a beautiful romance."

He turned her face up to the moon and kissed her again, a long, passionate kiss, to which she responded with warmth. She felt his other hand drop to her knee. This startled her for the moment, but it seemed an accident. As he kissed her again, still more passionately, his hand turned over, and he gave her knee a squeeze.

She jerked herself away, pushing him at the same time until they sat in opposite corners of the seat. "If you think I am a naughty girl because I dance you have another guess coming!" she cried indignantly. "You misunderstood me!" he pleaded.

"I understand you perfectly. Understanding you, I think we better go home."

"Not yet!" he answered. "I insist you listen a minute. How can a fellow find out about a girl if he does not investigate?"

"Well, you can end your investigation right now! I am no prude, but I have my ideas of right and wrong. Caressing my knee is a violation of my principles."

"Don't get sore at me. Plenty of girls are not so particular."

"I suppose you'll bring one of them next time!" she snapped.

"Darling, don't put your words in my mouth," laughed Andy. "You have a very pretty and very small mouth, and its words don't fit mine!"

She realized he would laugh this off, just as he had the fact that he was too tight to take her home from the fraternity party. She resented it, but felt helpless. It was difficult to stay angry with him.

"Oh, well, let's go home," she sighed. "The party has gone flooie, anyway."

"Just as you please," he agreed. "But if you are going to get peeved every time someone tries to find out what kind of a girl you are, you are in for a lot of rows in automobiles. A chap has to find out whether they are petters or just neekers when he takes 'em out."

"I'm afraid I don't understand the distinction."

"Why not tell me now?"

"A necker is a girl who kisses and hugs and that's all."

"And a petter?"

"The word 'pet' is almost a synonym for 'pat.' I was patting you on the knee just now, you know."

"I think I understand. At the worst I am only a necker!"

"For the present, at least," he laughed as he stepped on the start.

She knew he was angry about something, and feared it was because she resented his familiarity.

The next day George Harris came to the cigar store and waited till Betty was unoccupied with a customer.

"How do you do, Betty," he began. "You have been so busy lately I have not seen much of you. You have been out almost every night."

"Yes, I've been having a good time, best I ever had," she responded, his mention of her many engagements.

"I did not come in to talk about that," he went on. "Your father is not so well. I thought I might be of some help to you here. I would be glad to stay in the store nights, or while you go home to supper. I am off duty at the restaurant at

READ THIS FIRST:
Betty Brown learned dancing to make herself more attractive to men. On her return from a summer camp she goes to her first wild party, tastes her first gin in punch, puts on a wild dance for the party and leaves her escort, Andy Adair, asleep from too much liquor. Harry Ford drives her home, later, assisted by Doc Alger, who plays for her, she gives a dance at an entertainment given by her father's lodge. She is a big success, pleasing him very much. Doc kisses her in the park. Becoming frightened, she makes him drive her home.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XVI

During the winter season which followed Betty's first public dance at her father's lodge, entertainment, his health failed. As the cigar store's small profits did not justify the employment of a clerk, she was at the store with him much of the time.

At first she did only his small amount of bookkeeping, brought his lunch and ran errands. She did not dislike the work, but as he began to stay home a few days out of the week, the group of lodge brethren who had made the cigar store a meeting place began to drift away. The profits fell off to such an extent that she could not ask him for money to resume her dancing lessons at Selkoff's winter school.

Assisted by Doc, she danced at three other entertainments. The reaction of the young men who attended was instant. She was crowded with engagements, going every night to some party or dance with Doc, the irrepressible Harry Ford, or Andy Adair. She had not intended to go out with Andy again because he had drunk too much at the fraternity party, from which Harry Ford had to bring her home.

But Andy passed the matter over as of small consequence, telling her any man was apt to be taken unexpectedly tight.

One night he came in his big car to take her for a long ride in the country. Making the excuse of stopping to light a cigarette, he talked to her about how pretty she had become.

"You are blossoming out like a rose, Betty!" he said.

"I wonder if I am any different from what I was, or do you just imagine it?"

"I see a lot more of you, since you have been dancing!" he laughed.

"You are seeing a lot more of me because I have been dancing," she retorted.

"Oh, well, since you've been dancing you are not so prissy."

"I haven't changed a particle," Betty defended, spiritedly. "But since I have been dancing dozens of boys want to make engagements with me who never noticed me before."

"Don't you know that girls who dance in public are supposed to be naughty, and that naughty girls appeal most to men?"

"I don't want to be thought naughty, whatever that means."

"The word means different things to different people," he laughed as he spoke.

"What does it mean to you?" she demanded.

"You'd be surprised!"

"Then surprise me. I want to know."

"Wonder if it would surprise you if I kissed you?"

"No!" She pushed him away. "I want to know just how you think of me."

"Ah! She wants to know that my intentions are honorable!" He laughed again. "Aw, Betty, don't be a crab! It's a nice night, with a pretty moon I arranged especially for you. We're out in the country with nobody but the crickets, and you want to talk about serious things. Forget it and be happy!"

He reached over to put his arm around her, drawing her closer to him. She pulled away at first, then yielded herself to his arms. He kissed her gently and laid his cheek against hers. She snuggled happily into his collar, feeling that perhaps he was right; happiness for the moment was the only thing worth considering.

He turned her face up to the moon and kissed her again, a long, passionate kiss, to which she responded with warmth. She felt his other hand drop to her knee. This startled her for the moment, but it seemed an accident. As he kissed her again, still more passionately, his hand turned over, and he gave her knee a squeeze.

She realized he would laugh this off, just as he had the fact that he was too tight to take her home from the fraternity party. She resented it, but felt helpless. It was difficult to stay angry with him.

"Oh, well, let's go home," she sighed. "The party has gone flooie, anyway."

"Just as you please," he agreed. "But if you are going to get peeved every time someone tries to find out what kind of a girl you are, you are in for a lot of rows in automobiles. A chap has to find out whether they are petters or just neekers when he takes 'em out."

"I'm afraid I don't understand the distinction."

"Why not tell me now?"

"A necker is a girl who kisses and hugs and that's all."

"And a petter?"

"The word 'pet' is almost a synonym for 'pat.' I was patting you on the knee just now, you know."

"I think I understand. At the worst I am only a necker!"

"For the present, at least," he laughed as he stepped on the start.

She knew he was angry about something, and feared it was because she resented his familiarity.

The next day George Harris came to the cigar store and waited till Betty was unoccupied with a customer.

"How do you do, Betty," he began. "You have been so busy lately I have not seen much of you. You have been out almost every night."

CLEVELAND, O., Feb. 18.—When America's hero, Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, goes a-wooing he does it in the same quiet manner that characterized his transatlantic flight and his subsequent aerial jaunts about the continent.

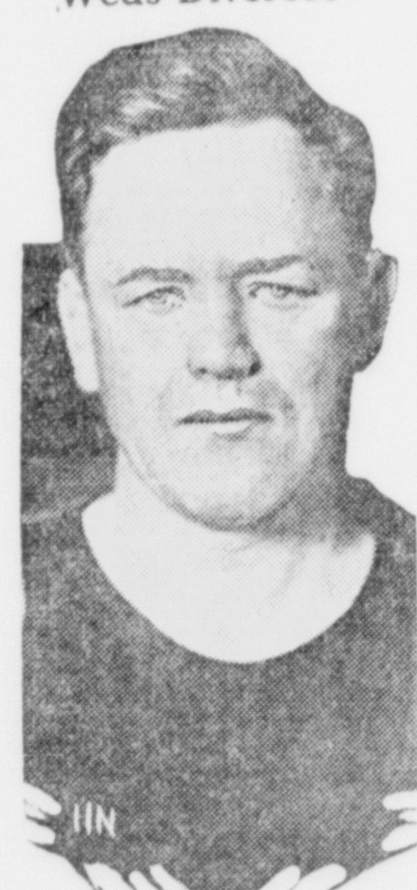

So says Miss Annie Spencer Cutler, of Cleveland, a sister of Mrs. Morrow, an aunt of his fiancée, Miss Anne Morrow. She recalls her visit to the embassy at Mexico City last November when Lindbergh also was a guest of the Morrows.

"Although we all knew the colonel and my niece had a very deep affection for each other, I never saw a bit of love-making between them during their entire time together. Their composure and dignity was wonderful."

Persons connected with the embassy were as surprised as the rest of the world to learn of the coming wedding.

Miss Cutler smilingly tells of the cleverness of the young couple in eluding reporters at the Morrow home in Englewood, N. J. "It has been so difficult for them to be to-

Passed Up!

READ THIS FIRST:

Betty Brown learned dancing to make herself more attractive to men. On her return from a summer camp she goes to her first wild party, tastes her first gin in punch, puts on a wild dance for the party and leaves her escort, Andy Adair, asleep from too much liquor. Harry Ford drives her home. Later, assisted by Doc Alger, who plays her, she gives a dance at an entertainment given by her father's lodge. She is a big success, pleasing him very much. Doc kisses her in the park. Becoming frightened, she makes him drive her home.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XVI

During the winter season which followed Betty's first public dance at her father's lodge entertainment, his health failed. At the clear store's small profits did not justify the employment of a clerk, she was at the store with him much of the time.

At first she did only his small amount of bookkeeping, brought his lunch and ran errands. She did not dislike the work, but as he began to stay home a few days out of the week, the group of lodge brethren who had made the clear store a meeting place began to drift away. The profits fell off to such an extent that she could not ask him for money to resume her dancing lessons at Selkoff's winter school.

Assisted by Doc, she danced at three other entertainments. The reaction of the young men who attended was instant. She was crowded with engagements, going every night to some party or dance with Doc, the irrepressible Harry Ford, or Andy Adair. She had not intended to go out with Andy again because he had drunk too much at the fraternity party, from which Harry Ford had to bring her home. But Andy passed the matter over as of small consequence, telling her any man was apt to be taken unexpectedly tight.

One night he came in his big car to take her for a long ride in the country. Making the excuse of stopping to light a cigarette, he talked to her about how pretty she had become.

"You are blossoming out like a rose, Betty," he said.

"I wonder if I am any different from what I was, or do you just imagine it?"

"I see a lot more of you, since you have been dancing!" he laughed.

"You are seeing a lot more of me because I have been dancing," she retorted.

"Oh, well, since you've been dancing you are not so prissy."

"I haven't changed a particle," Betty defended, spiritedly. "But since I have been dancing dozens of boys want to make engagements with me who never noticed me before."

"Don't you know that girls who dance in public are supposed to be naughty, and that naughty girls appeal most to men?"

"I don't want to be thought naughty, whatever that means."

"The word means different things to different people," he laughed as he spoke.

"What does it mean to you?" she demanded.

"You'd be surprised!"

"Then surprise me. I want to know."

"Wonder if it would surprise you if I kissed you?"

"Not!" She pushed him away. "I want to know just how you think of me."

"Ah! She wants to know that my intentions are honorable!" He laughed again. "Aw, Betty, don't be a crab! It's a nice night, with a pretty moon. I arranged especially for you. We're out in the country with nobody but the crickets, and you want to talk about serious things. Forget it and be happy!"

He reached over to put his arm around her, drawing her closer to him. She pulled away at first, then yielded herself to his arms. He kissed her gently and laid his cheek against hers. She snuggled happily into his collar, feeling that perhaps he was right; happiness for the moment was the only thing worth considering.

He turned her face up to the moon and kissed her again, a long, passionate kiss, to which she responded with warmth. She felt his other hand drop to her knee. This startled her for the moment, but it seemed an accident. As he kissed her again, still more passionately, his hand turned over, and he gave her knee a squeeze.

She jerked herself away, pushing him at the same time until they sat in opposite corners of the seat.

"If you think I am a naughty girl because I dance you have another guess coming!" she cried indignantly.

"You misunderstood me!" he pleaded.

"I understand you perfectly. Understanding you, I think we better go home."

"Not yet!" he answered. "I insist you listen a minute. How can a fellow find out about a girl if he does not investigate?"

"Well, you can end your investigation right now! I am no prude, but I have my ideas of right and wrong. Caressing my knee is a violation of my principles."

"Don't get sore at me. Plenty of girls are not so particular."

"I suppose you'll bring one of them next time!" she snapped.

"Darling, don't put your words in my mouth!" laughed Andy. "You have a very pretty and very small mouth, and its words don't fit mine!"

She realized he would laugh this off, just as he had the fact that he was too tight to take her home from the fraternity party. She resented it, but felt helpless. It was difficult to stay angry with him.

"Oh, well, let's go home," she sighed. "The party has gone flooie, anyway."

"Yes, I've been having a good time, best I ever had." She resented his mention of her many engagements.

"I did not come in to talk about that," he went on. "Your father is not so well. I thought I might be of some help to you here. I would be glad to stay in the store nights, or while you go home to supper. I am off duty at the restaurant at

Her next thought was that she had not been nice to George. He was not very amusing, but he had always been kind. She determined to stay home more and try to be nicer to him and to her father.

IS ASPHYXIATED

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 18.—Mrs. Margaret Rice, 47, who was found dead in her apartment here, was asphyxiated, the coroner announced today. The verdict may result in the release of Jesse Ayers, 34, who was found unconscious in another room. Ayers said he lost consciousness after a drinking party in which another couple participated. The couple left, he said, and Mrs. Rice's body was found when police forced an entrance while she was alone. Ayers was taken to jail.

The Theater

Negro actors and actresses are jeopardizing their chances in motion pictures by temperament and lack of stability according to Harry Leavette, writing in The Pittsburgh, Pa., Courier, race newspaper.

Leavette pictures colored residents of Los Angeles as proud of the positions in the films won by some performers but holding their breaths less quarrels and dissensions cheat the race of its opportunity.

He recounts the experience of Charles Gilpin two years ago, who was hired by Universal to play "Uncle Tom" in "Uncle Tom's Cabin" and was fired for appearing on the lot an hour late. The delay cost the company money and mortified Bishop Scott and his friends who had called for the picture taking. Edmund Lowe later filled the role.

Fox gave Gilpin another chance in "Hearts of Dixie" at $1,200 a week but it is claimed that he showed signs of carelessness and crankiness and was released after an especially bad fit of temperment. George Reed was given the part, but failed and was succeeded by Clarence Muse.

Leavette also tells how performers who jumped from $7.50 a day as extras to $100 to $500 a week, bought automobiles with no place to keep them and how one performer speeded his through the picture lot which employed him and ruined his chances. He tells of another who bought three new cars, two Cadillacs, in two months and employed a chauffeur. MRS. CLARA HATCH DIES IN JAMESTOWN SUNDAY AFTERNOON

Mrs. Clara Hatch, 92, widow of Orange Hatch, the oldest resident of Jamestown, and a pioneer member of the W. C. T. U. in Greene County, died at 1:45 Sunday afternoon at the home of her son and only surviving child, Charles Hatch, Jamestown business man.

Mrs. Hatch, who would have been 93 years of age next June, had been in declining health for some time, due to the infirmities of age. She was born in Amsterdam, O., and was the youngest and last of the family of eleven children of Daniel and Elizabeth Thomas. She came to Greene County while young, and for many years she and her husband lived on a farm in the Caesars Creek neighborhood.

After her husband's death thirty-two years ago, she moved to Jamestown where she had made her home ever since. A son, John, and two daughters, Mrs. George B. Oldham and Mrs. Emma Sutton, preceded her in death. Besides her son, Charles, she is survived by five grandchildren: Mrs. Thomas Lee, Mt. Arlington, N. J.; Mrs. J. O. McDorman, Springfield, formerly of Xenia; Harold Oldham, Dayton; Fred Sutton, Miami, Fla.; and Phillip Hatch, Jamestown. Besides her own family she had reared five other children.

Mrs. Hatch was noted for her philanthropic work and her interest in civic and religious affairs. She never turned aside from a call for help from the needy and afflicted. She was an organizer of the W. C. T. U. in Jamestown, and engaged in the work at the time of the temperance crusades.

For eighty-four years she was a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church and was affiliated with the women's organizations of the church.

Funeral services will be conducted at 2 p. m. Tuesday at the Hatch home on S. Limestone St. Burial in Jamestown Cemetery.

Wrongfully Jailed

After serving seven months of a 15-year sentence for a robbery which he did not commit, Samuel Male, above, has been released from prison at Jackson, Mich., through the efforts of his attorney, Miss Gladys Stanley, below. He was the victim of mistaken identity.

The party will be in the form of a covered dish dinner at 6 o'clock, followed by a musical program. All members and their families are urged to be present and bring their own silver ware and china.

SKIPPY—An Idea

The World And All

BY CHARLES B. DRISCOLL

O TEMPORA!

If Leonardo da Vinci were living today, he probably would be working in the laboratories of the General Electric Company or the Bell Telephone Company.

Those who complain of the times in which we live probably will say, "Yes, and what could be worse than that? Imagine this great genius hitched to the chariot of a big industrial corporation!" But I can't see it that way. I've just been reading the best life of Leonardo that has been written. It is "The Romance of Leonardo da Vinci," written by Dmitri Merezhkovski, and published in the Modern Library. This is a slightly fictionalized biography, of course, and the more true for its fictionalization.

Leonardo was perhaps the greatest genius of whom we have any knowledge. But what did he leave behind him, after a long life? Hardly anything that was finished and permanent. He could paint as no one else could paint, but his masterpiece, "The Last Supper," was fading and deteriorating before he died, and it has been patched and repainted and refreshed so many times since that there is almost nothing of the work of Leonardo left in it.

He was a great engineer, architect and inventor, but he had so little stability and so much temperament that he seldom finished any great work, and he was almost of his precious years on work that suffered because of insufficient data.

If Leonardo were working under modern conditions, as the great

Steinmetz worked, he could have finished his undertakings and accomplished wonders, because a great organization would have delegated the slavery connected with his work to machines or less skilled hands. Also, if Leonardo were working today, he could count upon intelligent direction in a great laboratory. What he chiefly lacked was any sort of direction. Great genius often wastes itself upon trifles or impossibilities unless it is directed by organizing forces.

The times in which Leonardo worked were decidedly out of joint. We should be thankful that we do not have such a multiplicity of independent cities, warring dukes, poison plots among the rulers, and petty wars rendering existence unsafe for everybody. These times are not so bad.

MRS. CLARA HATCH
DIES IN JAMESTOWN
SUNDAY AFTERNOON

Mrs. Clara Hatch, 92, widow of Orange Hatch, the oldest resident of Jamestown, and a pioneer member of the W. C. T. U. in Greene County, died at 1:45 Sunday afternoon at the home of her son and only surviving child, Charles Hatch, Jamestown business man.

Mrs. Hatch, who would have been 93 years of age next June, had been in declining health for some time, due to the infirmities of age. She was born in Amsterdam, O., and was the youngest and last of the family of eleven children of Daniel and Elizabeth Thomas. She came to Greene County while young, and for many years she and her husband lived on a farm in the Caesar Creek neighborhood.

After her husband's death thirty-two years ago, she moved to Jamestown where she had made her home ever since. A son, John, and two daughters, Mrs. George B. Oldham and Mrs. Emma Sutton, preceded her in death. Besides her son, Charles, she is survived by five grandchildren: Mrs. Thomas Lee, Mr. Arlington N. J. Mrs. J. O. McNorman, Springfield, formerly of Xenia; Harold Oldham, Dayton; Fred Sutton, Miami, Fla.; and Phillip Hatch, Jamestown. Besides her own family she had reared five other children.

Mrs. Hatch was noted for her philanthropic work and her interest in civic and religious affairs. She never turned aside from a call for help from the needy and afflicted. She was an organizer of the W. C. T. U. in Jamestown, and engaged in the work at the time of the temperance crusades.

For eighty-four years she was a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church and was affiliated with the women's organizations of the church.

Funeral services will be conducted at 2 p. m. Tuesday at the Hatch home on S. Limestone St. Burial in Jamestown Cemetery.
